NEW MESS HALL OPENED TO STUDENTS

THE DEDICATION CEREMONIES ON HOMECOMING

New Building Furnished With Latest Equipment.

Friday, September 17th, 1926, will be remembered as an outstanding date in the history of St. Viator College, for it was on this day that the first meal was served to the Faculty and students in the new refectory. To the members of the Faculty this meant the realization of a dream cherished since the disastrous fire of last January. To the students this new hall had the appearance of a palace wherein they were to have their food served to them amid resplendent surroundings. Here was a dining hall adequately equipped to take care of a student body of five hundred in forty-five minutes.

The new one story building is constructed of brick tile and cut stone built around a structural steel framing. The inner walls are covered with varicolored glazed tile, and the airy and wholesome effect of the entire building is added to by the numerous windows. The cafeteria counter is built in, and arranged in the most modern manner. Its polished nickel combined with the forty shining tables gives the room an effect seldom produced outside of the most exquisite eating palaces. In the kitchen no expense has been spared in providing everything necessary for the sanitary cooking and preparing of food. The equipment of the kitchen comprises steaming kettles, boilers, and ovens, potato mashers, meat cutters and food grinders, all of which are operated by electricity. The refrigeration is produced by means of ammonia coils placed in the basement, and piped to three built-in boxes. The dishes are cleaned by a steam and electric washer which takes care of the entire usage in a comparatively short time. In the rear of the student hall the Faculty dining hall is situated. It has been equipped in the same manner as the student hall, with seating capacity for sixty persons. Here table service is provided by means of the self help department.

The building is constructed along Italian Renaissance lines and is built facing what will be the main drive of the college campus when the plan under way at the present time is completed. The entire ground around these buildings will be sodded and the drives will afford ample space for student walks. Shrubs and trees will lend enchantment to the surroundings and add a charm to the place that will increase the already pleasant atmosphere of the college.

The formal dedication of this building along with the gymnasium will be held on Homecoming day at which time a large percentage of the Alumni of the College, as well as many of its friends, will return to join with the members of the Faculty in celebrating one of the greatest events in the history of the school.

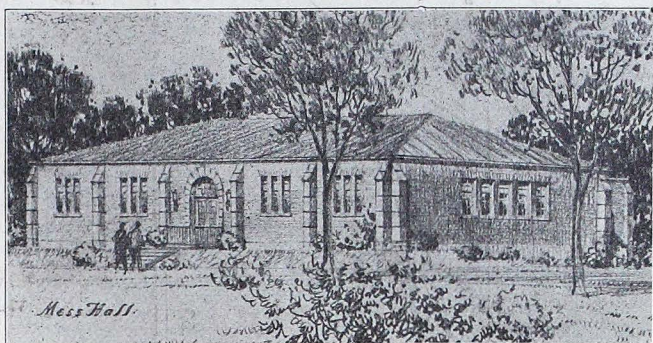

A former student of the College, Mr. Dudley Warner, of the Warner Construction Company, is in charge of the building operations, and is to be commended for the rapid strides made in the progress of the structures in spite of the adverse weather conditions. It is to the courageous efforts of the Viatorian Fathers and the able assistance of the members of the Viator Extension Club that the students and friends of the college turn to express their appreciation for this great step toward a greater St. Viator college.

WORKMAN KILLED IN FALL FROM GYM ROOF

On Wednesday, September 29, Paul Graham, a workman employed by the Dudley Warner Construction Co., fell from the roof of the new gymnasium to the floor some thirty feet below. He was rushed to St. Mary's Hospital where he died while he was being placed upon the operating table. Together with another workman Graham was attempting to place a concrete slab upon the roof when he lost his balance.

THE NEW MESS HALL

COLLEGE CLUB PLANS FOR YEAR

Dates For Class Activity Are Announced

The first meeting of the College Club was held in Room 19 of Marsile hall on Friday evening, September 24, 1926. Since the officers for the 1926-27 scholastic year had been elected prior to the close of school last year, President Dalrymple assumed the chair immediately. Mr. Dalrymple opened the meeting by reading the Constitution of the College Club for the benefit of the new members. After finishing this business, the president assigned the dates for the various class activities which are to take place during the ensuing year.

In accordance with the primary purpose of the College Club, namely to secure a greater amount of social activity and cooperation with the Faculty in self-government, each individual class in the college department was given a date on which it is to entertain. It is customary that this entertainment take the form of a dance. The Class of '27 will entertain just before the Christmas holidays begin. It will rest with the Junior class to sponsor some kind of diversion between the New Year and Lent. Immediately after Easter the Sophomores will be in charge of some kind of a frolic. Finally, after profiting by the mistakes of its predecessors, the Frosh will be expected to promote the premier entertainment of the year with the admonition that it take place before June first.

After making this assignment, President Dalrymple proceeded to formulate plans for the Homecoming dance which the College Club as a body will sponsor in connection with the other Homecoming activities. Various committees were appointed by the chair to handle the business of the dance. Many suggestions were made from the floor concerning the best way for the students to cooperate with the Faculty in making the Homecoming event a memorable one.

The orderly conduct of the first meeting of this organization and the quickness and efficiency with which the business was disposed, augur well for a successful and active year for the College Club. This Club can be made an invaluable asset to the student at St. Viator and it is ardently hoped that each individual member will do all that is asked of him to promote its welfare—and this includes attendance at all the meetings.

The first and third Mondays of each month have been decided upon as the dates of the regular College Club meetings. It is hoped that all members will remember these dates.

SENIOR CLASS NOTES

Under the able direction of Mr. Joseph Harrington, the Senior class of St. Viator college has outlined plans for a busy and successful year. Prior to the appearance of this issue of the Viatorian, the class has been busily itself in planning a reception to Coach McAllister and his football team. A more detailed account of this affair will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Aside from this typically class function, the Seniors are cooperating with the Faculty in the Homecoming plans which will have a special significance this year inasmuch as the dedication of the new buildings will be an important part of the ceremonies.

COLLEGE CLUB AND ALL CLASS ELECTIONS HELD

Dalrymple Heads College Club; Joseph Harrington Is Voted Leader of Class of '27

A few weeks prior to the closing of the 1925-1926 school session a meeting of the College Club was held for the purpose of electing the men to lead its destinies during the ensuing year. Mr. James Dalrymple, whose home is in Chicago, was elected president of the club. The choice of Mr. Dalrymple for the honor of presidency reflects the good judgment of the club members since he is one of the most popular and able men on the campus. Mr. Eugene Sammon, a native of the "Evergreen" city was chosen to act as vice-president. The office of secretary was placed in the trust of Mr. James T. Connor of Wilmington. Mr. Edward Gallahue, who hails from Piper City was elected to handle the financial affairs of the organization. With these four prominent students at the helm of the College Club, everything augurs well for a most successful and active year at St. Viator.

At a meeting of the Seniors the class elected the following officers: Mr. Joseph Harrington of New York, president. Mr. Francis Bell of Wilmington, vice-president. Mr. John Ellis of Seneca, secretary-treasurer.

The following men will act in an official capacity in the Junior Class: Mr. Eugene Sammon of Bloomington, vice-president.

Mr. John Harrington of Humboldt, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Edward McCarthy of Rockford, who was elected president did not return to school.

The officers of the class of '29 are: Mr. John Herbert of Gifford, president.

Mr. Paul Leary of Bloomington, vice-president.

Mr. Harold Costigan of Bloomington, secretary-treasurer.

The members of the Freshman class will look to the following members of their august assembly for the necessary inspiration:

Mr. Robert O. Barnett of Rock Island, president.

Mr. Edward Campbell of Chicago, vice-president.

Mr. Murray Provancher of Rockford, secretary-treasurer.

EDWARD GREENE, '30, OPERATED UPON

On Saturday morning, September 25, Edward Greene '30, of Wapella, Illinois, was afflicted with a severe attack of appendicitis. Toward evening his condition became so critical that it was necessary to remove him to St. Mary's Hospital in Kankakee where an emergency operation was performed. His recovery was rapid, and on last Saturday Edward was permitted to go to his home. It is hoped that he will soon be back on the campus.

VIATOR ALUMNI HONORED BY HOLY FATHER

Two Raised to The Dignity of Domestic Prelates

It is most difficult for us to find words that will adequately express our genuine and heartfelt joy when we realize the signal honors that have recently been conferred by Pope Pius XI on two of our prominent alumni. The Very Rev. Mrgr. B. J. Sheil, '60, and the Very Rev. Msgr. C. J. Quille, '98, have been raised from the dignity of Private Chamberlain to that of Domestic Prelate.

Monsignor Sheil is the chancellor of the Chicago Archdiocese and it was upon his shoulders the financial part of the Eucharistic Congress rested. Besides this it was Monsignor Sheil who had the tremendous responsibility of entertaining and looking after the care and comfort of the vast number of visiting foreign prelates.

Perhaps the great Eucharistic Congress would not have been such a marvelous success if it were not for the able Monsignor Quille. He was the General Secretary of the entire affair and the success of its every movement, its ceremonies and its discipline rested entirely with him. Monsignor Quille is also the director of Our Lady of Mercy Mission for the working boys of the city. The various clubs of St. Rita for the working girls demand his care also.

The energy that these two Monsignors put into their work is marvelled at by everyone, and we hasten to place upon them our wreath of well-merited admiration and congratulation. Joyously we raise our hearts on high in gratitude to God for such noble men and the success of its every movement, graces upon them, that He will spare them long; the world needs such men as these.

We also wish to extend our felicitations to three other priests who have been vested with the robes of Private Chamberlains to the Holy Father. They are: The Rev. Victor Primeau, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Manteno, Illinois. Monsignor Primeau was chairman of the Out of Town Reception Committee and secretary of the French section; Monsignor Griffin, pastor of Queen of Heaven church, Cicero, Illinois, and Monsignor J. A. Casey, pastor of Mt. Carmel church, Chicago, Illinois, assisted in the secretarial duties connected with the Congress. Although these three Monsignors are not numbered among the alumni of St. Viator College yet they are great friends and active benefactors of the institution.

PROF. PEREZ TELLS OF MEXICAN TRIP

Spanish Teacher Was Assistant Secretary of Mexican Tourist Party.

In compliance with that internal force which impels all progressive teachers to seek higher attainments in their professions, Joseph J. Perez, professor of Spanish, spent a very interesting summer in his native land, Mexico. To a party of seventy-five tourists, all teachers or college graduates interested in Mexican affairs, Professor Perez acted as assistant secretary. At Monterey and Laredo the entire party was cordially received by consulates and delegations of college professors.

At the National University in Mexico City the party attended classes in Spanish, Spanish Art and Literature, Mexican Archaeology, Mexican problems and English and American poetry. As part of the course short tours to points of interest aided in making the tedious routine of summer study more enjoyable. As Prof. Perez says: "The entire party returned to the States with a different opinion of the country south of the Rio Grande and a better understanding of the people who dwell there. These few tourists now know that all the Mexican people are not the bandits and robbers usually represented on the silver screen."

Prof. Perez also had an opportunity to view and study at close range the religious problem between Church and state. While he has been very reticent in voicing his opinions on the situation, he has consented to express through these columns a few ideas about the existing circumstances and political problems with which he personally came in contact this summer in Mexico.

SENIOR CLASS HOLDS RECEPTION

Football Squad Guests of Class of '27

The social events of the school year were given a flying start on Saturday, Oct. 9th when the Seniors entertained Coach McAllister and the football squad at a reception in the new refectory. The program consisted of dancing, vocal and reading selections, and dance novelties. Dancing began shortly after nine o'clock and continued until about ten thirty. The "Viator Loyalty Song" was then sung, first as a solo by Mr. James Dalrymple and then by the entire assemblage. Refreshments were served immediately after in the form of a luncheon, during which entertainment was provided by John Ellis, James Dalrymple and his father, Kenneth Knittel and Byron Evard. Without doubt the elder Mr. Dalrymple was the hit of the evening. His presentation was a verse reading ab ut "His Sunday Breeches" and he surely "brought down the house." Mr. James Dalrymple and Mr. John Ellis gave vocal selections and Kenneth Knittel entertained with a Charleston exhibition. Mr. Evard's novelty dance was a great success and demands for encores were most insistent. Leslie J. Roch, acting as master of ceremonies called on Coach McAllister and Joe Harrington for a few remarks. Mr. McAllister expressed his deep appreciation of the spirit shown by this reception but, pleading bashfulness when addressing a crowd in which there were so many of the weaker sex, cut his remarks quite short. Mr. Harrington told of the just pride the Seniors felt in being the first class in the history of St. Viator to hold such a reception and he expressed his appreciation of the splendid work on the part of the Freshmen in assisting to make the party so successful.

Dancing was resumed at the close of Mr. Harrington's remarks and continued until midnight. Music for the dance was furnished by a College Orchestra assembled by Prof. Roch from the many departments of the school. Judging from the many compliments received, the musicians might well feel proud of their endeavors.

FOUR PROFESSORS ADDED TO FACULTY

College Offers New Course In Foreign Language Department.

The new scholastic year has witnessed the addition of four professors to the faculty. The Rev. James A. Lowney, c. s. v., has been transferred from the pastorate of Chamberlain, S. D., to the chair of philosophy at the college; the Rev. M. L. Parrette of Louisville, Ky., is teaching classes in mathematics, religion and physics; the Rev. Brother C. J. Gedwell, c. s. v., has returned from Westville, Ill., where he has been acting as Master of Novices to the Congregation of Charity and is teaching once more in the commercial department. Mario Chanoux, a graduate and for a time professor of languages in the University of Milan, Italy, has been added to the department of foreign languages and is teaching Italian. It might be of interest to state that St. Viator is one of the few colleges in the United States offering a course in the Italian language.

THE CHANGE.

It is expected that those who have occasion to peruse this first edition of the Viatorian in its new form will almost invariably take a second glance at the name which adorns the top of the first page. The difference in appearance between the last issue of the Viatorian, which numbered seventy-five pages of printed matter, and this four-page affair is no doubt predominantly noticeable. However, it is important to observe that the publication in its new form is not essentially different from the old. Its aims are the same. It continues to act as a medium by which student endeavor in writing English will be stimulated; it remains the connecting link between the Alumnus and his Alma Mater. The high literary quality for which the Viatorian has previously been noted and highly acclaimed is not to be sacrificed in any way. Essays, short stories, and poetry are to have a place of predominating importance on a special page reserved for that quality of writing. Special articles in which the Alumni will be featured, and an Alumni column will appear in every issue. The distinctive difference, to which the reader's attention should be called lies in the more frequent appearance of the new paper. For Many years the Viatorian has been published quarterly and for the last three years it has been issued at monthly intervals. While the paper in its new era cannot present the pretentious and dignified appearance it enjoyed under the old form it will by its bi-weekly publication attempt to bring to its readers more news of local interest. Up to the present time such items were confined to one column. It is realized that such news matter as this department did contain held little more than passing interest when it appeared a month or sometimes two months after the happenings related therein had occurred. The realization that the student body and alumni desired a more frequent and more detailed account of the important activities of the institution impelled the change to a form that would make possible a more frequent and timely appearance.

A glance at the listed staff will show that the present plan of production requires more students than previously. Herein lies a distinctive advantage. A greater number will be presented with the opportunity to actively engage in "putting out" the Viatorian. Those aspiring to follow journalism as a life work will have an opportunity to become acquainted with the workings of an active newspaper. Since the college curriculum does not offer a course in journalism at the present, it will in this way be enabled to provide journalistically inclined students with a laboratory in which they can analyze and develop more fully any proclivities they may have for such a career.

In the historical life of St. Viator College, the Viatorian has played a prominent role. To the student bodies wending their various ways through the courses of the institution it has meant more than a mere chronicler of events or a few treatises on matters of literary or educational importance. To them it has ever been a friend. It has, from its humble inception until the present time, signified something of which any one connected with St. Viator College was justly proud. Nor was the paper appreciated only by its intimate acquaintances. Comments from numerous other college magazines throughout the country have expressed the high esteem entertained for the literary contents and general makeup of the journal. It is hoped by the present staff that the Viatorian will continue to enjoy the popularity and good will that were afforded its old form. It is their ambition to send forth in each publication something that will be anticipated and welcomed by every student, alumnus, and friend of St. Viator.

Reflections of a Senior

On Going to College

When I was a child in the grades I used to think of going to college as something far off and impossible as death or marriage. I knew there were beings who went there. I had heard about them, nay, even seen some of them. And whenever an opportunity came I stared at these creatures in awe and marvel. To think that not content with having struggled through the eight interminable ages of grammar school, not content with having survived four centuries of high school, these amazing and astounding persons had deliberately, voluntarily and willingly chosen to spend four more years in a place called college. It was scarcely credible. What herculean ambition! What giants of learning! I fancied their heads must be heavy with the weight of that prodigious knowledge they had stored there.

But after I had finished those first eight years of my education, which to my imagination seemed longer than all the rest of my life together, I began to take a somewhat different, though equally fantastic, view of college. It was about this time that I discovered poetry. Shelley and the young poet of the war, Rupert Brooks, became the two gods of my existence. I read their lives and others, and it soon appeared to me that anybody who was worth anything went to college. It was an enchanted place where Shelleys, Coleridges and Keats met to exchange ideas. College became the acme of my aspiration. I didn't feel at all sure that they would be willing to admit such an ignoramus as me. In fact I thought I would have an awfully hard time getting in. And if I succeeded I had no expectation that any of the divine beings there would do more than tolerate my presence. It would be something like heaven. I would sit in the furthest and darkest corner, absolutely happy only to look on their faces and listen to the wondrous words that would flow from their lips. Whatever notion I had that perhaps I might make friends with the least of these glorious personages and perhaps talk with him was sternly repressed. I don't understand how I was quite so stupid as all that, but I was. Of course, as I got a little older and saw the kinds of people that went to college it made me wonder. But I reflected that they probably went to very inferior places. Naturally they couldn't get into the real colleges such as Shelley and Keats attended. I don't think I ever quite got over my disappointment in finding college a thing so different from my fancy. I realize that the dreams of early youth were as impossible of realization as the world of "Prometheus Unbound," but the reality is too ironic a contrast. Is there indeed no place where people may go, not because they want credits, but because their hearts are burning up to understand the mysteries of the world; not so much to test and strengthen their bodies as to sharpen the keenness of their minds; not for the frivolous pleasures of society, but for the deep arduous delights of learning.

Well and now I am a senior. I am the idol of my childhood ambition. But I find alas, that the idol has feet of clay. I am the survivor of a sixteen year voyage on the stormy sea of education. But I see no port ahead. Graduation is a mirage that can comfort only the weak and foolish. There is really no such thing. The haven lies on the other side of eternity. And the only thing to do is to sail on and on in the classic fashion inaugurated by Columbus to some unknown America that lies shrouded in the mists of space.

CHOIR BEING

REORGANIZED

Fortunately Rev. Charles W. Raymond is again with us this year and will again wave his baton to the rhythm of modernized "Gregorian" motifs. Already the choir, which did such splendid work last year under Father Raymond's guidance, has been re-organized and has also begun rehearsals on Kaim's "Mass in Honor of St. Cecilia" arranged for four male voices. This Mass is being prepared for the solemn feast of St. Viator, Oct. 21st. In addition to this Mass, Vito Carnevali's "Missa Stella Matutina" for tenor and bass voices, is being prepared for use at the regular Sunday High Mass. Included among the members of the choir are such soloists as John Ellis, James Dalrymple, and Alban Klaus. Among the new voices which may be used as soloists this year are Joseph Martorelo, John Benda, Robert Barnett, and a boy soprano, Thos. Kennedy.

Apart from the regular choir rehearsals, Father Raymond has instituted a regular community singing class which all students of the school attend. The object in organizing the class is to train the entire student body in the singing of Benedictin Hymns and other incidental hymns required from time to time during the regular chapel services. In all this work Father Raymond is ably assisted at the organ by Prof. Leslie J. Roch of the piano department.

IS IMPROVING NOW

The splendid co-ordination of the cheering squad was especially significant during the game. Of course, Sammon will always find the straggling one or two who suffer from the baneful influence of the so-called superiority complex; it is a sort of malady that infects the upper regions of certain individuals who like to be pointed out as belonging to the "smart" circle. Their idea of loyalty, of school spirit, and general good fellowship is certainly a distortion of the real meaning of the word. The brave little band from Eureka should stir their patriotic sensibilities—it should shame them. Sammon works hard and should receive one hundred percent support; it is a compliment to the student body to report that he has about ninety-five percent with him. Perhaps the other five percent isn't worth urging.

ST. VIATOR GREEN SWAMPS EUREKA COLLEGE 30 TO 6

BENDA PASSES WITH DEADLY ACCURACY

Whipped into fury by the sting of the Loyola setback last week, McAllister's Green Wave swamped the Eureka Colleg Ship of State by the overwhelming score of 30 to 6. It was seemingly an entirely new eleven that took the field Saturday under the guidance of Captain "Jake" Walsko, whose inspiring work at tackle approached the acme of perfection that our new coach is striving to develop in his youthful charges. There was hardly a department of the game that was not functioning in mid-season form. Benda's great passing talents were given ample opportunity, and the large number of completed aeriels is ample indication of the great part played by Costigan and Bowe, as well as Mike Delaney, in the final outcome of the game.

Hardly less brilliant than the rare choice of plays called by Campbell at quarter, was the scintillating work of entry, with his stablemate, "Red" O'Malley, was here, there and everywhere, tearing through to break up Eureka's offense before it got under way, opening a hole with the not less brilliant Herbert; and all three were usually to be found somewhere in the pile when a plunge was directed at the line. With another game or two tucked away these lads should round out what seems to be a well-balanced scoring machine.

The fact that a player is a regular, or that he has proven talents sometimes overshadows his work in competition. Such is the situation with the indefatigable Leanhardt whose great work was clearly demonstrated when he was withdrawn because of injury, and still more when it became necessary to inject him into the lineup to stem the threatening advance of Eureka in the fourth quarter. His absence from the field proved the importance of having him in shape for Bradley next week. Leanhardt will be in next Saturday even if he has to essay the feat of Paul Leary, who played a full half-game against Loyola with a broken ankle. Such is the mettle of Viatorian gridders; and Leanhardt and Leary are truly Viatorian.

The sweeping end runs of Jimmie Dalrymple best illustrate that the right half position will be well taken care of this Fall. Jimmie suffered an injury to his throwing arm and followed calamity with disaster by turning the right ankle into a swollen mass. His great work yesterday in scoring a touchdown and kicking three out of four point goals from placement, not only cleared up a great uncertainty, but added greatly to Viator's potential strength. Frank May and Jim Madden, both of whom were suddenly called home, will be back Monday to get into the swim of things. Rascher is now in form and will be ready for any emergency that might arise in the center of the line, as well as Meis, Hartnett, Lassus, Haley and Evard, and the large squad of second string men who will eventually get an opportunity to break into the lineup before the season is over.

Much profit should be gained by the Viator team in guarding against penalties. No less than ten penalties for an aggregate of 95 yards were inflicted by the officials against St. Viator. Where Eureka was wanting in turns of fortune, we can rest assured the point of taking advantages of these that the alert Peorians will be on the job. The penalties were not due to carelessness or unsportsmanship, but purely to a tendency toward overzealous effort on the part of the Viatorians. If Coach McAllister can cure the evil without destroying the effectiveness of the unflagging spirit of his charges, another great obstacle toward success will have been hurdled.

A detailed account of the game would result in a monotonous exposition of end runs, line plunges and forward passes. The great interference given to the runner, and the wide holes opened up in the line for the plunging backfield men, came too rapid for the reporter, whose emotional chords are too responsive to the thrill of a Viator victory to permit a careful and impartial chronicling of details. High spots were jotted then and there, such as the great work of Herbert whose efficiency in the line even climaxed that of his efforts at Loyola, Delaney's line plunging, and the instances already cited. But a summary of the notes showed an overwhelming balance in favor of St. Viator, with only an occasional bright spot in the person of Captain Ingals, Eureka tackle, or Glafka, his left half-back, who made the Eureka score. Smith, the Eureka quarter-back, made a mess of his forward passing assignment, throwing directly at Johnnie Bowe once and failing to toss his passes with reasonable accuracy even for the shortest distances. There was much beef in the line, but as Hooks O'Malley naively put it "it wasn't hard". For the first time in his experience Mike Delaney was matched if not outdistanced in the matter of punting. Captain Ingals, who dropped back from tackle to do the booting, got off many nice punts, none of which however, compared with the remarkable boot our own fullback made from mid-field to the corner of Eureka's goal line where it rolled out spasmodic and for the most part was kept from becoming a serious menace. Eureka best proves that beef and pep are not the chief assets of a scoring machine, and unless a radical improvement is made by Coach McKenzie, Viator can count her fourth successive triumph for next year as already in the reckoning.

The sportsmanship of both teams and the high fighting qualities of Eureka, especially when facing inevitable defeat, were outstanding features of the game. Time and again a Eureka man matched the good fellowship of a Viatorian by helping to his feet an opponent that was temporarily put out of the play. Even Carroll's "heeling" was acknowledged by the Eureka captain as decidedly accidental. Once or twice tackles were made out of bounds, but again the offense was unintentional. A splendid fling of sportsmanship was always hovering over the field, and the manager for the visitors expressed regret that he could not re-on the three-yard marker. Ingals has much talent and is worthy of a better supporting company. Mosely, the dusky end, caused quite a little trouble on Bowe's side of the line, but it was main long enough with us to participate in the entertainment to the football squad that evening.

VIATOR OUT TO TAKE BRADLEY

The one big spot on the Viator program of football games every year is the annual visit to Peoria. Perhaps no two teams on the schedule are more beating so much as taking a fall out of the Bradley team. Even a victory over Lombard wouldn't be so relishing a dish as that of the Johnsonian school. So far we have practically exhausted the reasons for not being able to take the measure of the cross-Staters, and chiefest and most popular of all is the trite Bradley Jinx. Last year we started out with all the earmarks of victory. Sam McAllister kicked over a field goal in the opening quarter, and later in the game we charged over for a touchdown. This was the first time Bradley goal line had been crossed by Viator, and the final score 20 to 12 was the best made against the Peorians in two years of undefeated football. There may be something in the theory of progression, and we may gain a tie game or a possible victory, but the odds are very much against us. Bradley has all the veterans of last year, and with it the impetus of gaining a third year of an unblemished record. There is one big factor however, in which the Viatorians have an advantage, and which is a vital department of the game of football: it is in the great fight and dash that has made St. Viator college one of the greatest drawing cards wherever it has been represented. With Mike doing the punting, Benda tossing, Dalrymple skirting the ends, and a fighting gang of footballers helping things along in general, a Viator victory is not impossible of realization.

ALUMNI NOTES

During the year we have been the recipients of two publications from the Rev. James A. Williams, '09. The one was a beautiful year book called "The Mariner" containing the account of the scholastic activities for the past year of Columbus College at Sioux Falls in South Dakota. The other was a collection of patriotic poems that was written by Father Williams before, during, and after the great World War. These poems appeared from time to time in the Chicago Daily Tribune, The Viatorian, The Catholic Messenger, many other periodicals. Both of these books are very interesting. "The Mariner" especially, was artistically gotten up, in fact, one of the finest annuals to reach our desk.

During the summer the genial author and director himself spent several weeks at the College. We were glad to welcome him back to his Alma Mater and to learn that the West agrees so well with him.

Word from the Rev. Jeremiah P. O'Mahoney, '10., informs us that his work is securing belated vocations is going apace. He is now installed in his own establishment at Oriskany, N. Y., where he has several candidates preparing themselves for the priesthood.

Father O'Mahoney is also publishing a quarterly called "The Eleventh Hour". It is a splendid little magazine and will help much in furthering his work in recruiting vocations to the priesthood.

We are happy in announcing to the alumni and the students that at a meeting of the St. Viator Council of the Knights of Columbus, Claud M. Granger, '17., was elected Grand Knight. We send to Mr. Granger and to his staff of officers our best wishes for success in their new duties.

John F. Ryan's, '26., ability as a sporting editor was first manifested when he had charge of the athletic column of the Viatorian in 1924. Evidently "Butch" had a liking for the job as he now holds the same position on the Bloomington Daily Bulletin.

All good mothers are happy to give back their children to God whenever His voice calls out, "Come follow Me." Viator is just such a mother and she rejoices that seventeen more of her sons have responded to the Master's bidding.

On August 15, six of these pronounced their first vows of poverty, chastity and obedience at St. Viator Normal Institute, Chamberlain, S. D. They are: Brothers B. G. Mulvaney, R. Boysen, J. W. Stafford, J. J. Ryan, W. A. Harris and E. J. McCarthy. On the same day three graduates of habit of the Clerics of St. Viator. They are: Mr. Charles R. Murphy, Mr. Edward T. Donovan and Mr. John J. Ryan.

In the chapel of the Sacred Heart at St. Viator College on August 15, Brother F. J. Harbauer, c. s. v., and Brother J. T. Sees, c. s. v., consecrated themselves irrevocably to God. AD MULTO ANNOS!

Our heartiest congratulations also go out to four young men of last year's college graduating class who are studying for the priesthood at St. Paul Seminary, and to the two who have departed for Kendrick Seminary. Those at St. Paul's are: Messrs. Frederick "Gus" Dundon, Leo Dee and William Neville.

Those entered at Kendrick are: Messrs. Patrick L. Kern, an ex-associate-editor of the Viatorian, and James J. Silkas.

The Junior class misses from among its ranks Mr. Joseph Healy and Mr. Robert Moore. Joe will pursue his theology at the North American College in Rome, Italy and Bob is enrolled at St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Maryland.

Of these, her loyal sons, Viator is ever so proud and she commends them for their generosity in responding to the Divine Call.

On Sunday, September 26, the new St. Basil's church at Garfield boulevard and Honore street was dedicated. The Rev. John T. Bennett, '79., its pastor, has worked zealously and energetically for many years on the plans and to him great credit is due. The edifice is of the Byzantine style of architecture and is modeled after the church of St. Sophia in Constantinople. However, St. Sophia's is built in the form of a Greek cross while St. Basil's takes for its shape the Latin cross. The interior of the church is marble and mosaic, all of which comes from Italy. The hand-colored drapes of white velvet and tooled leather come from Spain.

We extend our congratulations to Father Bennett for the beautiful work of art for which he is responsible, and long after his departure it will remain as a memorial to him.

Brothers J. P. Lynch, E. J. Williams and J. T. Sees left about the middle of September for the Sulpician Seminary, at Washington, D. C.

Brothers Williams and Sees are just commencing their study of theology and they are also following courses at the Catholic University. On Thursday, September 23, Brother Lynch was ordained Deacon and expects to be elevated to the priesthood within a few months. He will also obtain his M. A. degree from the Catholic University this year. The Viatorian staff wishes these three levites unbounded success.

On Saturday afternoon, October 2, 1926, Brother F. J. Kotnour, c. s. v., pronounced his perpetual vows of poverty, chastity and obedience. The touching ceremony took place in the chapel of the Sacred Heart at the college. The provincial, the Very Rev. W. J. Surpenant, c. s. v., officiated and all of the Brother's confreres were present to witness his solemn consecration to God. The Viatorian extends to Brother Kotnour its best wishes and congratulations for the step that he has taken.

United Central America

In 1823 the five Central American states were united into a national federation, which subsequently adopted a constitution modeled after that of the United States. The federation was partially ended by 1833, practically dissolved in 1839, and completely dissolved in 1847.
