CHARITY GAME HUGE SUCCESS

College Clears Big Sum For Unemployed From Charleston-Viator Game

The defeat inflicted upon the Irish by the Charleston Teachers was somewhat offset by the knowledge that the College would be able to turn a large sum over to the Kankakee Unemployment Commission for use in furthering its activities among the unemployed of this section of the state. The game was attended by the largest crowd of the year, exceeding the Homecoming throngs by many hundreds.

A large share of the credit for the interest in the game is due to the newspapers and the committees of the various civic clubs of Kankakee, who co-operated with the College in every way possible to secure the success of the game. The Franklin Press printed the programs free of charge, eliminating that important item of expense. The Kankakee Municipal Band, the Kankakee High School Band, and the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps also donated their services and entertained the crowds between the periods of the game. An announcing apparatus was installed, and the fans were able to follow the game more closely by the aid of Denis Drolet, who handled the microphone.

Although the majority of the people attending were from Kankakee and vicinity, a good share of the crowd which filled the stands and overflowed onto the sidelines was composed of students' parents here to celebrate the first annual Parents' Day of St. Viator College.

College Club Meets To Discuss Council

A meeting of the College Club was called on Monday evening, November third by President Carroll to consider the plan of student government as outlined by Father Maguire. Because of the interest aroused over the question, an unusually large number of students were in attendance. The meeting was formal, and called only for the purpose of ascertaining the consensus of student opinion on the matter.

The plan was vigorously attacked by Mr. Flynn, Mr. Hoover and Mr. Farrell, but found some support from Mr. Middleton. A number of the members present took part in the discussion, and nearly everyone expressed dissatisfaction with the idea. It was finally decided to leave final judgment on the plan to the College Club Advisory Board, who, if they found the school plan to be unacceptable, were to draft a plan for submission to the College Club and the school authorities.

Father John Parker, Pastor of Immaculate Conception Church in Streator, and an old friend of the College, paid us a visit last Tuesday.

College Helps Prepare Unemployment Figures

A number of the students of St. Viator College, under the direction of Father Maguire, have been aiding the Kankakee Unemployment Commission in compiling its statistics regarding the situation. A three-day registration was held at the suggestion of Father Maguire, at which time every unemployed person in the vicinity was asked to register. Approximately seven hundred blanks were filled out by the Commission in the three-day survey. The students have volunteered their services for the cause.

TO PRESENT OLD MYSTERY PLAY

Students Stage Ancient Mystery Play for Char- ity at Christmas

Under the direction of Murray Hickey Ley, instructor of English, the students of St. Viator are planning to give a mystery play at Christmas time for the benefit of the unemployed. The play is to be presented at the Luna Theatre on the evenings of the eighteenth and nineteenth of December.

Tryouts for the play were held in the auditorium of Roy Hall on last Thursday evening, at which time a number of incipient thespians displayed their wares. The results of the tryouts will not be known for some time yet.

The play tentatively selected for presentation is "The Shepherd's Watch." It is an adaption of the old Maastrich Play and the Messiah by Thomas J. McKeon. The cast includes thirteen players—the Blessed Virgin Mary, Angel Gabriel, Joseph, First King, Second King, Third King, an Angel, and the six Shepherds.

The Shepherds, who are the principal characters, are described as:

First Shepherd—One versed in the Scriptures, but with no pronounced views concerning the Messiah.

Second Shepherd—Who ardently looks for the Messiah. He thinks the Roman rule precludes the coming of the Messiah as foretold by the Scriptures.

Third Shepherd—A poet, but a scoffer, cynical, but good-hearted. He pretends to have no faith in the Coming.

Fourth Shepherd—A practical Jew. "Let well enough alone" is his motto. Business is good, so why waste time on religion and politics?

Fifth Shepherd—A zealot, hating Rome with all the fire of an oppressed race. Considers only the "prosperous Messiah."

Sixth Shepherd—An old man who has all but lost hope in the Coming. Bitter experience has made him cautious; age has dulled his enthusiasm.

The players will be assisted by a choir of trained voices.

William M. McFawn, Academy '29, is attending St. Thomas Military Academy at St. Paul, Minn.

Second Year Men Pick Mr. William Gibbons to Succeed Middleton

At a meeting of the Sophomore class called on the evening of Tuesday, November 11th, Gill Middleton, Class President, submitted his resignation. Mr. Middleton gave as his reason a lack of co-operation on the part of the class with the President, and the realization of his inability while in office to accomplish certain ends. After a long discussion in which he was asked by the class to reconsider, his resignation was accepted. The class proceeded to the business of electing a new President. The names of William Gibbons and Kenneth Bushman were placed in nomination, and Gibbons was elected by a small majority.

The retiring President, Mr. Middleton, has been one of the most popular men on the campus. He has held and still holds many important offices. The success of the recent Homecoming was due largely to his efforts as general chairman of the Homecoming committees. He was the delegate of his class to the Advisory Board last year, and is this year's President of the St. John Berchman's Society. He is a member of the staff of the Viatorian, and a leader of student activity.

The new President, Mr. Gibbons, is a new-comer to class politics. Like his predecessor in office, he is a product of Trinity High of Bloomington. He is a well known and generally liked figure on the campus.

CO-ED PARTY TO BE ON NOV. 19

Newly-Formed Sorority To Give Dance and Card Party on That Date

As its first activity of the year, the new Social Sorority of S. V. C. will give a dance and card party in the College gym on the night of November nineteenth. The affair is under the direction of the co-ed officers with Mary Taylor, President, in charge.

Anxious to show the boys of the College Club how to stage such an affair, the co-eds are sparing no pains to make the evening a success. To play for the dance, they have secured Faletti's orchestra—a fact which practically precludes the possibilities of any dull moments. They are decorating the gym in an original fashion, and are endeavoring to make the huge structure even more attractive than it was at Homecoming. The ticket committees will make a drive among the student body in the near future, but tickets for the affair can be obtained from any member of the Sorority.

Bishop Shiel at St. Rose Confirmation

On Tuesday, October 28, the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Shiel, auxiliary Bishop of Chicago, came to Kankakee to officiate in the administration of the sacrament of Confirmation to two large classes. At two o'clock he confirmed a large class at St. Mary's and at four o'clock, he confirmed a class of two hundred and sixty-five candidates at St. Rose of Lima. The class confirmed at St. Rose contained fifty converts among its number.

Bishop Shiel is a graduate of St. Viator College with the class of 1908. He is the titular Bishop of Pege.

LIBRARY OFFERS NEW BOOK CLUB

Librarian Has New Plan For Circulation of Late Books

A new plan whereby the latest books may be obtained at a nominal cost has been offered the student body by the library. According to the plan, a book club is to be formed to facilitate the distribution of the books.

The club, being formed by Mrs. Mascarin, Librarian, is to be composed of those students and members of the faculty who are interested in the latest books, both fiction and non-fiction. Membership in the club is to be had on the payment of an initial fee of fifty cents, and the books purchased by the club may be taken from the library by the members on the payment of a nominal fee of fifteen cents for the first four days loaned and two cents a day for every day thereafter. Through the medium of the club, the students will be able to obtain many late books which would not be available if they were to be purchased only from the general library fund. When the books have paid for themselves, they are to be added to the general collection in the library.

The club is attracting widespread interest among the members of the student body, and it is hoped that as many students as possible will pledge.

Father Maguire is Speaker in Chicago

But recently returned from his appearance before the American Federation of Labor, the Very Rev. J. W. R. Maguire, C. S. V., journeyed to Chicago on Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11th, to speak before the Catholic Association for International Peace. The meeting, which was held at the Congress Hotel, was under the sponsorship of the Chicago Calvert Club. Father Maguire spoke at the morning session of the all-day meeting, and took as his topic, "The Economic Causes of the War." Because of Father Maguire's reputation as an economist, his listeners received an interesting and instructive lecture.

PARENTS' DAY BIG SUCCESS

Father Maguire Makes Strong Plea for the Co-operation of Parents

Approximately one hundred fathers and mothers declared Friday, November 7th, a holiday and attended the first annual Parents' Day exercises at the College and expressed their congratulations upon the addition of the new date to the scholastic calendar. The faculty was well pleased by the representative turnout at the inaugural event, and as a result many valuable ideas and opinions were exchanged with the parents. Already it is hoped to make the next Parents' Day even more successful than this one.

The weather was ideal and many parents came early in the afternoon to give the institution a thorough round of inspection. They were escorted through the various buildings and class rooms by their sons. By four o'clock a goodly number of cars had been parked in front of Marsile and Roy Halls, Chicago, Peoria, Bloomington, Hoopeston, and other Illinois city license tags were much in evidence, along with some Indiana licenses.

At 5:30 o'clock Chef Russo and his aides proudly served dinner to the parents and the students in the students' refectory. The well-balanced menu evoked many pleasing comments from the visitors, many of whom were enjoying the hospitality of the College for the first time. Father Maguire mingled with the crowd and was introduced to the occupants of the various tables by the students.

Father Maguire Speaks

After the meal was over, Father Maguire spoke on the advisability of making Parents' Day an annual affair and publicly thanked all those who had made the day such a success. He also mentioned his plans for the future of the College and dwelt upon the value of Catholic education. His talk was very interesting and was well received.

At 8:00 o'clock many of the parents had the pleasure of seeing their sons play against Charleston Normal in the football game, while the others appeared very much interested in the game.

Team Goes to Illinois College This Week End

The team left early Friday for Jacksonville, Illinois, where they are to meet the Illinois College eleven in the next to the last game of the year. Hopes of a victory over the Ramblers are high. Illinois College has not won a game this year, and is not expected to put up any great amount of opposition to the Irish. Besides the co-coaches McAllister and Dahman, twenty-three men made the trip.

On Hazing

After a trip down the corridors of Roy Hall, we are a bit inclined to doubt the worth of the "remnant of barbarity" argument against the method of hazing Freshmen now in vogue at St. Viator. When one considers that the student is exposed every day to a thousand other distasteful reminders of the days when men were men, or apes, or whatever you will, it is to be expected that they will have scant respect for the beautiful moral arguments urged against paddling and kindred evils. College students are just enough boys to want to revolt against authority, and just enough men to want to be barbaric in their revolt.

This did not start out to be a defense of paddling, and it shall not be. We are against paddling, not because it is intrinsically wrong in itself, but because of the dissention it causes in the student body. When a system forces the resignation of a capable man from a well-administered office, simply because he dares oppose that system, then there is something wrong somewhere. While it is of some consolation to learn that there is at least one man left in St. Viator College with some sense of honor, decency and the general fitness of things, it is nevertheless disconcerting to learn that such a thing was brought about in a Catholic College, the supposed center of Catholic learning and culture.

Mob psychology has been the cause of most of the occurrences in Roy Hall. We sincerely hope that the resignation of Gill Middleton will have a sobering effect on some of the more enlightened elements of the upper classes at least.

We think that the fellow that wrote the critique on the proposed plan of student government has given a remarkably comprehensive survey of the situation. We believe that he is a bit too bitter about the situation, but while his plan may not be the only one that will work, we shall support it until a better one comes along.

The library story is a bit late, we know, and we wish to offer our apologies to the Librarian. We did not wish to slight the story, we knew it was of front page interest, so we held it until we could give it the prominence it deserved.

Whitey Mehren has the right idea in his little speech to the student body. The support given the team at the last game was little short of pitiful. It would seem that an occasional bouquet goes to the student body's collective head.

The Freshmen seemed to think that the author of the story on the recent inter-class football game might have been a bit prejudiced. Unfortunately, my children, the truth, as demanded of every journalist, is a bit irritating to certain classes, but we must have the truth at any cost.

CRITIQUE

Mr. Editor:

In an effort to find a solution to the problem of student discipline, Father Maguire called the students together and outlined a plan of student government. The plan, as advocated by Father Maguire, provided for a student council to consist of seven members, three of whom should be the prefects of Roy Hall, and the remaining four to be selected from the student body at large. The council should sit on all minor infractions of the rules and mete out punishment according to the rules as promulgated by the College Council.

The theory of the thing is, we presume, that, if the student is brought into closer contact with his disciplinary body, he will have a greater sense of honor or responsibility or something, and break the rules less often. The trouble being that the thing is just another of those theories which sound so nice in the class room, but fail so miserably in practice. The plan might instill a high sense of duty and honor in the four men elected to its membership, but if it did, and the men kept their faith with the Council, it would have the simultaneous effect of making them outcasts among their fellow students. They would be bound to report all breaches of discipline, and since everything done in Roy Hall is an open secret, they would forfeit the respect of the student body. The students would so vigorously resent any such institution of "stool pigeon" that we doubt if any capable man could be found to sit on the Council.

Even if the above objection should be removed, the council would be without power. It was made quite clear that the Student Council would have no right to expel, and that all cases of a serious nature would not fall within the jurisdiction of the Student Council at all, but would go before the College Council, leaving the Student Council out in the judicial cold. It would be a waste of any student's time to sit on any Council so meaningless.

The Student Council would have nothing to say about the laws it governs under. It would merely cover the hand of the College in judging offenses and dealing out punishments. It would not sit to judge individual cases, but to ratify the precepts of the College as applied to individuals of the mass. The College reserves for itself the legislative and executive functions besides taking three members of the Student Council. In other words, the College has but to swing one vote to gain absolute control of the situation, while it is impossible for the students to ever get anything even faintly resembling control.

It is customary in the colleges and universities of this country to treat the men and women in attendance as persons who have reached a sufficient stage of rationality to be able to govern themselves. A large portion of the student body of every institution of higher learning is composed of men and women who have been thrown upon the world and are quite able to take care of themselves. They naturally resent being treated as if they were a cross between a jail-bird and a five year old child.

Those of us who prefer to attend a Catholic college find that we must subscribe to its paternalistic style of government as a necessary evil. It is not my intention to take issue with the Catholic mode of education in this letter, but I do believe that it is our duty to lessen the hold of the system upon the ordering of our daily lives as much as possible. The plan advanced by Father Maguire I hold to be intolerant because, first, it establishes a system of spies in our midst, secondly, it provides for a perfectly meaningless and superfluous body on the campus, and thirdly, because the new organization will have at the best, nothing but minor judicial powers. Since, therefore, the plan gives the student nothing, but takes much away from him, and since I admit the existence of certain evils and the necessity for their correction, I submit the following plan of student government as being the only one acceptable to the students and having a possibility of success.

A Student Council of seven members, three of whom will be the prefects of Roy Hall and the remaining four to be elected from the student body at large. The Council to pass on laws and regulations for student government submitted to it by the College Council. The Student Council to have final and supreme jurisdiction in every case involving a question of student discipline excepting such cases as it may deem best for the College Council to handle.

Such a plan would give the student a share in his own government commensurate with his supposed intellectual attainments. It gives to each student a right to trial before a jury of his equals, who will be much more likely to understand his case than the College Council. On the other hand, it gives three places on the Council to the College and only four to the students. If the cause of the College is just, I am quite sure that it would have little difficulty in convincing one man in four of its righteousness. It would diminish the paternalistic atmosphere on the campus to a minimum, and give the student the feeling that he is now a man. St. Viator has done much to eliminate the jail-house idea of Catholic education, I feel quite certain that she will now take the lead in eliminating the nursery-room aspect.

Representative Student.

"And a little child shall lead them." John H. Burns is at least to be commended for his attempt to arouse some sort of interest among the student body on topics of a national scope. In other countries the politics of the nation are decided in its universities. In this great land of the brave and the free, the universities hardly know that a national government exists.

POINT SYSTEM IS PROPOSED

Augustana Plan Urged

Of late there has been considerable agitation on the campus for the adoption of some sort of honor point system such as is in vogue in practically every university and college throughout this country to give recognition to the sacrifices made by men in the school for the general good. A copy of the Augustana system, which seems to meet with the largest amount of general favor is printed, together with its most popular revisions to fit conditions at St. Viator.

The purpose of the Point System is to regulate the participation of students in extra-curricular activities, particularly with a view to: increasing the efficiency of campus organizations, discouraging the monopolizing of offices by a few individuals, but rather encouraging a larger number of students to take part in campus activities, preventing any students from becoming involved in these activities to the extent that their scholastic work suffers in consequence.

Administration of the Point System will be shared by faculty and students, being delegated to a committee of five to consist of: dean of studies, a second faculty member to be elected by the faculty, a senior to be appointed by the senior class president, a junior to be appointed by the junior class president, a sophomore to be appointed by the sophomore president.

The second faculty member will serve as chairman of the committee, and the junior student as its secretary. An organization meeting of the committee will be held at call of the president during the first two weeks of each school year. The duties of the secretary will include collecting and filing membership lists of glee clubs and athletic squads, slates of officers, casts of plays, etc., as rapidly as these become available. These records will be filed in the office of the dean of studies, where they may be readily consulted at any time by committee members and others interested.

No student shall be allowed a total of more than thirty points at any one time, except by special permission of the Point System committee. To be eligible for a major or sub-major office, a student must have made an average of seventy-five or above during the preceding semester, and to hold his office he must maintain this average.

The following evaluation of student offices and activities is based upon the relative amount of work entailed, not upon the honor connected therewith. The Point System committee may, at its discretion, modify the list at any time in any way.

"The purpose of the point system is to regulate the participation of students in extra-curricular activities, particularly with a view to increasing the efficiencies of campus organizations, discouraging the monopolizing of offices by a few individuals, but rather encouraging a larger number of students to take part in campus activities, preventing any students from becoming involved to the extent that their scholastic work suffers in consequence." Everyone will, we believe, recognize the advantages to be derived from discreet regulation of extra-curricular activities. A wise control over them will, for example, encourage every member of the student body to participate in some phase of the various organizations existing on the campus. Each individual will be brought into social contact with his fellow scholars. Such a result is greatly to be desired because it is inconceivable that men may work together as a unified body if there is no common ground on which they may build their friendships, their hopes, and their desires.

To constantly increase in efficiency is a tendency of modern society in the American colleges, this is particularly noticeable. One of the aims of the Augustana system is to increase the efficiency of campus organizations. By fostering an increased interest in the College Club, in the Bergin Debating Society, and in numerous social and scholastic pursuits, it promises to accomplish this.

"Discouraging the monopolizing of offices by a few individuals" touches upon a very human aspect. Though national politics may, later in the collegian's life, very probably necessitate the voting of a "straight ticket" for a few favored politicians, there are four years of his life when he may feel that clean individualistic thoughts and worthy actions will be duly rewarded. The Augustana system proposes to secure due recognition for each scholar by urging the student body to take a still more lively interest in its various elections than it is now doing. Upon the adoption of this plan, we think that all of the students will take a yet greater interest in working together. The incentive to this, due recognition and reward of ability, will be present.

The last point in the quoted paragraph, specifically, the intention of the system to prevent any students from becoming so involved in the (extra-curricular) work that their scholastic standing would be effected, is, unquestionably, one which will meet with universal approval. It is a striking assertion by the student body that it, on its own initiative, will prevent any one of its members from becoming so interested, for example, in athletics, that he should forget the Greek maxim, "niens sana, in Corpore sano." Such regulations promote versatility in the student which is, really, only another way of stating that the Augustana system is in perfect accord with a cultural education.

"Administration of the point system will be shared by the faculty and the students, being delegated to a committee to consist of the Dean of Studies, a second faculty member to be elected by the faculty, a senior to be appointed by the senior class president, a junior to be appointed by the junior class president, and a sophomore to be appointed by the sophomore class president." So far the administrative department goes. In regards to this, I think personally, that whoever originated the idea sought to promote class warfare, Karl Marx doctrine, by the way, between the Freshmen and the upperclassmen. I do not believe that there is any reasonable excuse for the exclusion of Freshmen from this board. This student, on the other hand, as a newcomer, and, in a manner, a stranger, should at the very least be allowed nominal representation in the council. If the Freshman is excluded from the administrative body proposed by the Augustana system, may his cooperation be reasonably expected? I think that it may not be. Such a system must, indeed, have the entire student body, every member of it, supporting it. The author of the above sketch evidently failed to realize the significance of the Latin motto "E pluribus unum." Aside from its failure to include the first year students in its group, the administrative theory of the organizations should be adopted because, by bringing the members of the student body into closer contact with the faculty, better cooperation between the two bodies will be assured.

"The second faculty member will serve as chairman of the committee, and the junior student as its secretary. An organization meeting will be held at the call of the president during the first two weeks of each school year. The duties of the secretary will include collecting and filing membership lists of glee clubs, athletic squads, slates of officers, casts of plays, etc., as rapidly as these become available. These records will be filed in the office of the dean of studies where they may be consulted at any time by committee members and others interested." Since there is no provision made for a chairman of this committee, it must be inferred that since ex officio, he is the one who controls it, the President of St. Viator College would be asked to call the meetings of this assembly.

The following concludes the description of the system: "No student shall be allowed a total of more than thirty points at any one time, except by special permission of the Point System Committee. To be eligible for a major or a sub-major office, a student must have made an average of seventy-five or above during the preceding semester, and to hold his office, he must maintain that average." It should be clearly pointed out that the Point System Committee controls any student activities within the thirty point limit. One student may thus be the Editor-in-Chief of the Viatorian and his class president. He has, in this manner, attained the limit of the thirty honor points and, except at the discretion of the Committee, he may not take part in any activities awarding Sub-major or Sub-minor honor points.

This plan is exceptionally good. Its utility may be emphasized by the reiteration of the preceding "points" in its favor. It harmonizes the student's extra-curricular and scholastic aims; strengthening of the campus organizations into coordinating units will be accomplished; discouragement of the monopolizing of offices will make the student life more interesting, and, moreover, imprint a concept of democratic government on the student's mind. Scholarship will be advanced by limiting the number of distractions. For these reasons, adoption of the system is sought. The Viatorian urges the formation of a student committee to confer with the faculty regarding the adoption of the system.

CAGE PRACTICE TO START SOON

Hopes for a Successful Basket Season High as Veterans Return

The first practice sessions of the 1930-31 basketball season were held last Tuesday. With but one game remaining on the football schedule, the attention of the student body is being attracted more and more to the hardwood floor.

After losing but two men from the entire squad of last year, the hopes of the Irish for a creditable showing in the Conference and a possible Little Nineteen Championship are high. Last year St. Viator ended the season in third place according to the Dickinson rating, led only by Bradley and Illinois Wesleyan. St. Viator lost the first game played with each one of these teams, but won the second contest in each instance by a good score. The Viatorians had one of the strongest teams in the Conference last year, and piled up an impressive series of victories over the other league leaders, only to lose the championship on their showings against minor quintets. The Irish were strongest when pushed hardest, and found the going toughest when the opposition was weakest.

The hardest blow to the team will be the loss of the diminutive "Boob" Evard of Ft. Wayne, whose play was the sensation of the Conference. Eyard was a marked man in every game, and drew the attention of the opposition from the activities of the other members of the team, creating numerous scoring opportunities. He was the high point man of the Little Nineteen in his Junior year, and was three times selected as all-conference forward. He was also selected by many teams as the most dangerous man against whom they played during the year.

The failure of "Brud" Cassidy of Holyoke, Massachusetts, to return to school left a gaping hole at guard that will be hard to fill. Cassidy alternated with Karr at guard, and was the terror of opposing forwards. His unusual method of shooting and his deadliness from the corner of the floor made him a well-known figure throughout the Conference.

Another man who failed to return this year was Jerry Holscher, elongated center, whose six feet-seven enabled him to drop in many sure ones under the basket. Jerry went ineligible at the semester last year, but finished the year out.

St. Viator has five men back this year to form the nucleus of the new squad. Romary and Laffey, forwards; Furlong, center and Clothier and Karr, guards, are the letter men returning.

Romary, a Junior, is playing his third year as a forward for St. Viator. He was the running mate of Evard for two years, and is a tricky forward.

Laffey is a Sophomore, coming originally from De La Salle of Chicago, where he was a member of their National Catholic Champions in 1929. He won his letter last year as the replacement for either Romary or Evard.

Furlong, a Senior, is playing his final year of basketball for the Irish. He took over the job vacated by the graduation of the great "Ducky" O'Malley last year, and handled it in great fashion. Al became the regular choice for center last year over Carson, an all-state man from Champaign, and Holscher, all-state in Indiana.

Ken Clothier, another Senior, is a guard with three years of experience. He is regarded as one of the best defensive players in the Little Nineteen, and always gets the job of stopping the key-man of the opposition. The way in which he stopped such men as Meehan and McQueen last year demonstrate sufficiently his value to the team.

Ralph Karr is a Sophomore who won his spurs at guard last year as the mate of Clothier. The Bradley team picked him as the most promising Freshman they had played against all year. He is especially noted for his speed, and his habit of taking the ball away from opposing forwards as they are trying to pass him is a continual source of delight to Viator fans.

Issue First Call for Fencing Candidates

The first call for candidates for the fencing team was issued on Thursday, November 13, by Doctor Besseney. The call met with a large response, and an unusual amount of interest was manifested by the students in attendance in the new sport. The equipment was selected by Dr. Besseney personally.

Fencing is an entirely new sport on the Viator campus. It is very seldom that a school of this size is able to maintain a team and a capable fencing master. St. Viator is unusually fortunate in having a man of Dr. Besseney's varied ability on its staff.

College Helps Students

In an effort to aid the more ambitious students of St. Viator to assist in paying for their college education, a circular has been issued by the Treasurer's office to the business men of the vicinity. Among the positions listed are secretaries, clerks, copyists, waiters, private tutors, salesmen, accountants, bookkeepers, journalists, advertisers, and overseers.

The first answer to the circular came in the request for three salesmen from a downtown firm. Other answers are expected daily.

A Tragedy in One Act

Once upon a time there was a king who had three daughters, the youngest of which was the most beautiful. But a wicked old witch had cast a spell upon the fair young princess that made her unable to smile or laugh. Thus it was that the unhappy princess lived in her lonely little room in a high corner of her father's castle for eighteen years. She never laughed or smiled and seldom was she seen without a tear in her soft blue eyes.

Now the king became very much worried about his dear young daughter and offered her hand in marriage and half of his kingdom to anyone who could make her smile. Day after day the sad princess was interviewed by clowns and jesters who had made their masters sick with laughter. But the princess was bored to tears at these exhibitions of knavery. One fine morning, however, as the princess was gazing out of her window she burst into an hysterical fit of laughter from which she never recovered. There on the path far below was Ken Bushman in his derby.

Father Lowney: Who can give me an example of hypothetical proposition?

Ed Hunt: If you ask me that question, I could not answer.

Father Lowney: Fine, Ed.

Convenience

It's a convenient thing to say,

I didn't love her

Anyway.

Or if I did a bit at first

The silly bubble chose to burst,

Into that sane soap lotion

Which cleanses hands of all emotion.

Convenient?

If it be true.

(Written by the Editor in a weak moment.)

I never thought that Freshmen were any more ignorant than Upper-classmen until I heard one say, "Even though we are Freshmen we have our rights."

But Freshies aren't the only unsound students. Let us take for example a Junior who wrote this:

I know a sweet little girl,

Her head adorned with a curl,

She has a lovely smile

That makes life worth while.

I mean that sweet little girl about the campus.

When with "Lizzies" top down, we go for a ride,

The space between us is not so wide,

She knows how to cook

We'll have our little nook

When I win that sweet little girl about the campus.

The Sophomores held a meeting the other night and Gill Middleton resigned the office of President. At this meeting Bill Gibbons tried to induce Gill to keep his office by saying, "Aw gee, Gill, if you quit the fellows will only elect some silly guy who doesn't know what its all about." Gill was not so easily persuaded, however, and the meeting ended with Bill Gibbons as President of the Sophomore class.

ORDER MOVES ITS SEMINARY

Establish Seminary in Conjunction With College

After being discontinued for a number of years, the Seminary in connection with the College has been revived for the members of the Viatorian Order. During the period of the discontinuation of the Seminary at St. Viator, the members of the Order were educated for the priesthood at the Viatorian House of Studies in Washington, where a number of the seminarians are still studying.

The Seminarians are quartered in St. Bernard Hall. The Seminary is under the directorship of Rev. Father Munsch. The faculty includes Father Munsch, who teaches Sacred Literature; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Legris, Moral Theology; Father Bergin, Dogmatic Theology; Father Rice, Sacred Eloquence; Father John Lynch, Canon Law; and Dr. Ellis, Church History.

The Seminarians now in attendance are Brothers F. A. Crocoran and E. M. Walsh, both of the class of '28, and former instructors in the Academy, and Brothers J. W. Stafford, B. G. Mulvaney, J. F. Meara, R. M. Boysen, W. A. Harris, and Joseph J. Ryan, all members of the class of 1930.

Bowlers to Have

A Tournament

A bowling tournament open to the College on the alleys in the gym store is being planned by George Fleming, who has charge of the alleys this year. Fleming expects to stage the tournament on Saturday night, November 15. There will be cash prizes for the winner. The entries and drawings are to be held soon.

There was little change in the standings of bowlers in the past week excepting that higher scores were being bowled on all alleys. "Herb" Hoover supplanted Ray Wenthe as high man of the year by his 213 game which topped Wenthe's 206 by seven pins. The alley record of 267 held by "Coot" Larkin still remains intact.

The co-eds are becoming an integral part of the College life. They are to be complimented upon the energy and initiative they have shown, and deserve the support of every member of the student body. Everyone out for the party.

VIATOR LOSES TOUGH BATTLE

Charleston Takes The Parent's Day Contest After Hard Game

A powerful and heavy foe found unexpected opposition when they met the fighting Irish on Bergin field in Viator's last home game, for the green clad lads were determined to do or die and they only fell short, by a few scant inches. After playing a somewhat mediocre game the first half, Viator came back on the field the second half with such offensive power as they had never shown before and marched the ball from their own thirty-five yard line to the visitors' one yard line, but they failed to score. Charleston had a hard charging wall and a fast running backfield that clicked with accuracy and co-operation. They relied mostly on line plunges and often found large holes in the lighter Viator line through which they scampered for much yardage.

Charleston received the ball on the kickoff and carried the ball in three successive first downs to the Irish ten yard line, where Viator held for downs and kicked out of danger. Three times Charleston repeated this same performance and each time the green wave stopped them from scoring. However, the Panthers were not to be deprived and on their fourth attempt crossed the goal line. The kick for extra point was blocked. The remainder of the half Viator used aerial tactics to advance the ball. This they did with some success until one of the passes was intercepted. The visitors again marched down the field but as before were stopped five yards from the goal as the half ended.

As mentioned before, Viator received the ball on the kickoff, and with a number of deceptive plays and passes advanced to the one yard line. Excited in the realization that they might score, they hurried their last attempt at the goal and a bad pass ended, what proved to be their only chance to score. Charleston resumed their former tactics, but were not as successful as during the first half, for the Irish line held in mid-field and the visitors punted. Viator's only chance to score was via air, and they threw passes with recklessness from almost any territory on the field. They even pulled the unexpected and tossed a few from behind their own goal line. The Panthers, ever wide awake, intercepted another pass on their own forty-five yard line. Knowing that six points was but a narrow lead, they began a desperate drive for a second touchdown. Pushing the Irish line before them they drove to the one foot line, where Powers went over for a line buck. They kicked the extra point. The game ended shortly after with Viator again throwing passes.

Charleston, leading the conference, was given one of their biggest scares of the season when Viator was in a position to score, for they have not been scored upon this year and the Irish could have been the first. Powers, diminutive back, was their most adept ball carrier but was closely pressed by his teammate, Hance.

For St. Viator, Captain Al Furlong was the most outstanding. His hard tackling in backing up the line was a pleasure to witness. His hammer-like drives at the line often obtained the necessary yards for a first down.

This Means You!

In the last edition of the Viatorian this column complimented the student body on its school spirit. But then we all make mistakes and we apologize. We were too hasty, we should have waited to see how that so-called cheering section would function under conditions not so favorable for the team. The contemporary Viatorians have a lot of spirit, there's no doubt of that. But that spirit is demonstrated only when Viator has the ball on the enemies' five yard line. That fact in itself proves that it is not spirit at all. You fellows showed that spirit at Homecoming when we were winning; you showed it at the Wesleyan game when it was even all around until the last few minutes of play. At the Charleston game you showed it once when it looked like Viator would score. As it happened the Green team got a bad break, Charleston received the ball close to their own goal and their wasn't a sound from the Viator side of the field, whence a minute before the cheering had been so loud that it was difficult for the Viator quarter-back to call signals.

Men, that's rotten! It is almost a direct insult to the team. It's damn cheap sportsmanship! Would any of you leave a buddy to take a licking and only stay with him if he was administering one? If you are half a man you wouldn't. But because your team is not winning you desert them. The only better method of proving your loyalty would be to leave the stands altogether. You might as well not attend a game for all the good you do. Anyone can cheer for a winning team, everybody does. If a team is easily winning a game, why that field at that particular time is no place for a cheer leader. He is as out-of-place as a missionary attempting conversions in a monastery.

Are you bashful? Are you too dignified to yell? Have you sore throats? Haven't you learned the yell! Don't you appreciate what a football player goes through to represent you on the field? You see members of the squad on crutches, limping around the campus. Don't you feel that you should respect him and at least cheer him, let him know you want him to keep fighting so that you can share in the glory of a victory? Whether you appreciate it or not you share in all the team's victories. It looks like you are such poor sportsmen that you don't care whether or not the team wins or loses. If you have that attitude, keep it. But stay away from all athletic contests at Viator. If you do not attend a game prepared to yell your fool head off, and do that when your yelling is needed you are not wanted. The best we can do for you is recommend you to Vassar. They need your type there. What if your team has a touchdown within their grasp and through a bad break lose it? Is that a signal for you to withdraw your support? No it is not, decidedly not, it's a signal for you to double, even triple the volume of your cheering. That's when they need it! That's when they naturally feel discouraged and it is only you fellows in the stands that can pep them up. Play the game yourself and you will understand.

The most comical figure on God's earth is the ignorant, boasting, four-flushing, smart-aleck moron who thinks he knows more than the team's pilot, the quarterback, and insists on displaying his knowledge in a loud voice and hurls insults and slanders the quarterback and some times the whole team when they are out on the field and can't hear him. Thank the good Lord there are comparatively few of these men around, but what there are of them, we hereby offer

FIVE SENIORS TO PLAY LAST GAME

Furlong, Carroll, Christ- man, Clothier, Logan To Graduate This Year

The Elmhurst game next Friday night will mark the final appearance of four St. Viator men on a college gridiron. The game will be the swan song for Captain Al Furlong, "Fat" Carroll, Ken Clothier, Pete Christman and Joe Logan, all of whom will graduate in June.

Although it will be the final game for Al Furlong, it will not be his last time to wear the Green of St. Viator. Al is a center in basketball, and a member of the varsity swimming team. This is his fourth year as a member of the football team, for he has played fullback for the Irish ever since he came here from St. Philip's High in Chicago. His dives for that extra yard needed for first down or for a touchdown have made him famous. Al could always be depended upon for a yard. No higher praise could be spoken of a full back.

Frank Carroll has played for St. Viator for eight years. He was a member of the old Academy team for four years before entering the College to play for four more. Fat has been a tackle like coaches dream of. His hole was always opened, and he could be depended upon to brace up the weak side of the line. Carroll was injured during mid-season when he was hit on his knee, re-opening an old injury, and it is doubtful if he will get to see action in the Elmhurst game.

Ken Clothier came to Viator from Trinity High in Bloomington and promptly took his place in the first string backfield. Kenny was a fast starting, hard hitting back, and the terror of many an opposing team. He will be missed greatly from his old place at right half next year.

Joe Logan is a guard and a product of Central Catholic of Ft. Wayne. He won his sweater as a Freshman, and has been a regular ever since. He has been one of the most consistent men on the team, although playing in a thankless, gloryless position. His loss will greatly weaken the center of the Irish line.

Pete Christman is the final one of the graduates. Like Logan, Pete is a product of Catholic Central of Ft. Wayne, but he is more recently from Quincy College of Quincy, Illinois. Although this is his first year of football at St. Viator, he has won his place at guard, and played his position in an unforgettable style.

them a very cordial invitation to come out and tell Sam and Bucky how the game should be played. They will be glad to hear from you, I know. If you know football get out there and take the quarter's position. If you are not capable of that, then shut up!

To return to our main topic—At the last home game of this year, you showed your true spirit. Maybe I'm wrong, I hope I am. Just think, fellows; a lot of men in that game were playing their last game on Bergin field. Some of them have played on it for eight years, since they were Freshmen in high school, and what kind of a hand did they receive from you, the fellows they were playing for? Practically no support at all. Gang, a condition like that should not and can not for long endure without ruining the school.

Elmhurst Game To End Season

As the final game of the tough nine-game schedule undertaken by the Irish this year, the varsity will travel to Elmhurst. Although Elmhurst has not won a game this year, they have proved to be anything but a set-up for every team on their schedule. It was Elmhurst who sent the strong Illinois Wesleyan eleven to the dressing room at the end of the first half on the short end of a 7-0 score, and all but defeated the Methodists. St. Viator, while confident of their ability to take Elmhurst, is by no means underestimating their strength.

Elmhurst is playing a squad of youngsters this year—but despite their youth and inexperience, they have made things tough for every team on their schedule. They have been improving with every game and every day they spend playing together, and will be out to save something from the wreckage of their season by a win over St. Viator. While the Irish are almost overwhelming favorites to win, they must display a better brand of football than they showed in the first half against Charleston if they are to take this clever outfit into camp.

Four Teams Undeclared in Conference Fight

Only a quartet of undefeated Little Nineteen football teams remained after the smoke of last week's battles had passed away. They were Milliken, Bradley, Charleston Teachers, and Carbondale Teachers. Each successfully repelled at attempt to bowl them for the lead but they held desperately on for the championship. Bradley easily defeated Illinois Wesleyan 19-6, while Milliken gave Illinois College a 45-0 setback. Carbondale's powerful attack upset Shurtleff 32-0 and Charleston eked out a 13-0 victory over St. Viator.

Monmouth was the only previous undefeated team which fell out of the race when Lake Forrest staged a great comeback to beat them 13-7. The most important battle scheduled for this week is the contest between the two Teachers, Carbondale and Charleston. To date Charleston had met more formidable foes than Carbondale but the down-staters have a strong eleven and the outcome is uncertain. Bradley rests this week though Coach Robertson's men are looking forward to their encounter with Milliken, November 22.

FRESHMEN WIN TWO BIG GAMES

Yearlings Showing Pro- mise as They Defeat High School and Village

Not in the mood to quit the season with the somewhat debatable defeat handed them fresh in their minds, the Freshmen have decided to continue their football season until they run out of opponents. They have played and won two games since their affair with the Sophomores, and are on the lookout for more.

The first of the two games, against the remaining fourth year class of the High School, was played on Sunday morning, November 2nd, and attracted quite a bit of interest on the campus. The High School lads were no match for the Frosh, although they held them to two touchdowns to lose the game 13-0. Bob Spreitzer caught a pass in the opening minutes of play to score a touchdown after a twenty yard run and give the Freshmen the lead. The High School braced and forced the frolics Frosh to confine their activities to mid-field until the final quarter, when the yearlings scored on a series of line bucks.

The game with the village team from Bourbonnais on the following Sunday really began to look like "big time stuff." About two hundred people from Bourbonnais and Bradley turned out to watch the two teams perform. The first half found the two teams evenly matched, with neither side able to gain on the other. The half ended at 0-0, and the two teams withdrew for instructions. Neither side lacked either coaches or advice, and both entered the final half with about a half dozen sure-fire victory plays fresh in their minds. The Frosh kicked off to the villagers and held them for downs. Taking the ball on their own thirty yard line, they smashed their way down the field to a touchdown on straight line plays, Paul Custer going over from the three-yard line for the counter. Wib Callahan's attempt to drop-kick the extra point was short. The Frosh had little difficulty in holding the villagers for the remainder of the game, and blocked a punt on the Bourbonnais ten-yard line as the game ended.

The Frosh have developed a smooth working outfit, and include in their ranks a number of well-known high school stars. Their regular backfield consists of Custer, from Trinity of Bloomington; Riley, of De La Salle; and Charlie Byron and Jerry Sullivan of St. Viator Academy. The line is composed of Pat Farrell, Bob Spreitzer and Bob Nolan at the ends; Whitey Mehren, Waldron and Almeroth at the tackles; Delaney and Madigan at the guards; and Gendron Legris at center. Bob Delaney is the combined coach and captain of the Freshmen, and manages to find time to manage the outfit, too.

Quarterly Exams to Be Held This Week

The exams for the first quarter are to be held this week, with the early exams starting on Monday. While the grades are not permanent, they serve to give instructors an idea of the amount of work being accomplished by the classes, and give the student an opportunity to gauge his own standing in his work. The well-known and often referred-to midnight oil is being burned in a most gratifying fashion on the corridors of Roy Hall.

COLLEGE LIBRARY IS REDECORATED

A new library clad with simple dignity and serene wisdom, a fitting abode for the Muses of all arts and sciences! Such, we expect, will be the St. Viator College library in the near future. Is it all a fanciful dream, a mirage in which the fond desire gives image to the phantom of the mind? Emphatically we answer, "No!" And more correct we are in stating that soon—as soon as possible—our ideal library will become a reality. At present the equipment of our library is sufficient for twelve hundred students. This fact of our equipment is alone, I think, sufficiently impressive to lead us to take all measures possible to attempt to make its appearance indicate the real value of the wealth of good books it contains. Some steps are being taken at the present time to aid in this cause: we ask that all support possible will be given those working for this purpose. The exact nature of the affair will be announced soon.

Of the changes that have already been wrought, the most obvious is, of course, the moving of the library itself. It now occupies its place on the second floor, leaving the entire first floor to the administrative offices. Many benefits have been derived from this move. Perhaps the greatest is that of space. Three-fourths of the second floor is used for the various rooms of the library. A larger reading room is now provided. With the change, it can be realized what an improvement the new is over the old reading room. The stock rooms are likewise much larger, making the books more easily attainable and accessible to all. The light throughout the rooms is much better than in the old library. It pours in from three directions and can be regulated by the use of the Venetian blinds which are also a new addition, ornamental as well as useful. The rooms will be found much more comfortable this year than last because they are not as exposed to wintry drafts as the old ones were. These are but a few of the decided changes and improvements, but with time and work we hope to make many more.

In Solution to the Unemployment Question

May an humble student make a suggestion? We have at the head of our institution, a man who has interested himself in the cause of Labor. He has worked hard and long solving many of the problems peculiar to Labor. At the present moment he is in the middle of what is probably the most trying of all the problems for which he has offered solution. Certainly it is the most distressing problem the government has had to contend with along that line for some time. It is the present unemployment situation, which is a factor in what one might term a "vicious circle" consisting of unemployment, which is causing a depression in sales of every kind, which in turn is again the cause for greater unemployment.

Here is the writer's proposition: Consider first the statement of the head of what was formerly one of the country's greatest brewing companies. He said in substance that he could employ eighty-five thousand persons in his breweries alone in the event of their being reopened! That is only for one concern, and in the breweries themselves, it does not take in the truck drivers, the bottle and barrel manufacturers,

John Tracey Ellis, Ph. D. Dr. Gabriel Besseney

John Tracey Ellis is an old son of Viator returning to her lecture halls in the guise of an instructor. Doctor Ellis graduated from St. Viator with the class of '27. While a student at the College, he made an enviable reputation for himself both scholastically and in extra-curricular activities. He was a debator and a member of the Viatorian staff, and took an active interest in the other affairs of the school.

After graduation from St. Viator, Dr. Ellis went to the Catholic University of America in Washington, where he continued his work in History. He secured his doctor's degree from the University last June with his thesis on "The Anti-Catholic Activities of the English Kings from Henry VIII." He returned to St. Viator as an instructor this year, and became the first man with a doctor's degree to head the Department of History.

Dr. Ellis is one of the most popular instructors on the campus. His pleasant and authoritative manner of lecturing, coupled with his intimate understanding of the student body, make his classes both interesting and popular.

the label printers and numerous other tradesmen who would indirectly be benefitted should this brewery reopen its doors!

Would it not be a great step in the alleviation of the unemployment situation therefore to do away with the Prohibition Act which has caused more damage than its institutors can ever be sorry for? Consider, there would be work for cabinet makers in building or remodeling places of dispensation, (note I don't say "saloon", for the old-time corner saloon has vanished forever, in my belief!); there will be work for dispensers, who will be the equivalents of the old-time bartender, there will be innumerable jobs to be performed. And too, there will be a cessation of the so-called crime waves which have prohibition as their indirect cause. Finally there will be content among the people, which in itself will aid immeasurably in alleviating business depression and consequent unemployment. John H. Burns.

Father Maguire's first Parent's Day certainly attained the success it so highly deserved. The number of parents in attendance and the interest manifested was most gratifying.

Doctor Besseney has had what is perhaps the most varied career of any man in the College. He is a graduate of the University of Budapest, holding degrees of Doctor of Philosophy in Politics and Economics. He entered the Austrian army and served throughout the World War, as an officer of the infantry.

At the conclusion of the war, Dr. Besseney was made a member of the Inter-Allied Commission, attached to the general in charge of Requisitions. In 1924, Dr. Besseney came to New York to serve on the editorial staff of the New York Times as its economics expert. He was connected with the Times until September of this year when the Very Rev. J. W. R. Maguire, President of St. Viator induced him to try his hand at education.

Dr. Besseney is admirably fitted for his position as head of the department of Political Economy, because of his scholarly education in one of the finest universities of Europe, because of his practical experience, and because of his enthusiasm and understanding of young men. His organization of a fencing team at the College is but one of the many instances of his ability to inspire the confidence of the student body.

St. Viator is not only fortunate in having a man of Dr. Besseney's stamp on her staff, but is honored by his presence.

The palm for the bravest man of the month should go, in our opinion, to the Editor of the Decaturian. It seems that there has been some confusion on the campus concerning the ability of good athletes to make up work in two days that would require the ordinary student two weeks. The gentleman, in the fullness of his innocence, probably thinks that the president of a college should rate higher than an athlete. Imagine that!
