RT. REV. GERALD T. BERGAN HONORED

Pope Pius XI Honors Alumnus.

On Wednesday, September 30, at solemn services held in the St. Mary's cathedral Peoria, Illinois, the Rt. Rev. Gerald T. Bergan Rector of St. Mary's Cathedral, and Vicar General of the Peoria diocese was invested with the title of monsignor and the rank of a domestic prelate.

The Rt. Reverend Joseph H. Schlarman, Bishop of Peoria diocese, conducted the investiture and delivered the sermon before a gathering that filled the cathedral.

There were fourteen Monsignors in attendance from Rockford, Springfield and Chicago, and, in addition, one hundred and fifty priests.

Classmate Celebrates Mass.

Fr. Joseph Gordon, a classmate of Fr. Bergan at St. Viator College, celebrated the high mass. Then the investiture was made, Fr. Bergan receiving his robes of office at the foot of the throne from the bishop.

Bishop Schlarman opened his sermon with a description of St. Peter's cathedral at Rome, where he went during his visit to the Holy See this past summer, and at which time the news of the forthcoming investiture of Fr. Bergan was first made known to the many friends of that well known prelate. During the course of the Bishop's speech he spoke of Pope Pius XI:

"This intrepid pontiff has taken as his motto the words of St. Jerome, the saint of today: 'You may destroy me, you may kill me, but you cannot silence me.' He tells rulers and statesmen that the state must rule in kingly fashion, far above party contention, intent only upon justice and the common good. He tells the world fearlessly that the concentration of wealth, intense power and despotic economic domination in the hands of a few is utterly alien to Christian truth."

Pope Is Thanked For Diocese.

"If it is true, as St. Ambrose says, that 'no duty is more urgent than that of returning thanks,' then I consider this an opportune moment to express the thanks of the diocese of Peoria to this courageous leader of mankind which is now groping through the dark valley of uncertainty and misery."

"I wish further to thank His Holiness for his lavish generosity to the priests and laity of this diocese."

"We are gathered here this morning to celebrate with all the pomp and liturgy of the church, investiture of a domestic prelate, a member of the pope's household. Monsignor Bergan needs no introduction. He was born and reared in the city of Peoria, coming from a family that is unaffected, honorable, virtuous and God-fearing."

Bishop Praises Bergan For His Devotion.

"The dignity of domestic prelate was granted Monsignor Bergan because of his zealous and priestly life as assistant and pastor at the cathedral; because of his close

BISHOP SCHLARMAN VISITS COLLEGE

The Rt. Rev. J. H. Schlarman, D. D., Bishop of the Peoria diocese, was the overnight guest of the Very Rev. J. W. R. Maguire, C. S. V., President of the College, on Saturday, October third. Bishop Schlarman and his Chancellor, the Rev. T. E. Shea, a loyal alumnus of the College, arrived late in the afternoon and stopped over until Sunday morning, and then proceeded on to St. Anne and L'Erable to conduct confirmation services.

During his short stay at the College, the Bishop met the various members of the faculty and inspected the buildings and grounds. On Saturday evening he gave a very interesting lecture to several of the faculty members, illustrating his talk with the projection of several hundred feet of film taken on his recent extended tour through Europe.

Bishop Schlarman celebrated low Mass here on Sunday morning, as did Father Shea. They left via motor at ten o'clock for the northern churches of the diocese, and were accompanied by the Very Rev. J. P. O'Mahoney, C. S. V., Provincial of the Chicago province, and by Father Maguire.

Innovation In System of Registration.

A new wrinkle was introduced into the system of registration here this year. Each student is photographed for identification. The photos are placed on file in the office and will serve to eliminate any difficulties that might arise, should another institution question the identity of a student presenting Viator credits for admission. This system is used in larger colleges and universities almost without exception, and has proven very helpful. It is hailed as another step toward perfect efficiency in education.

Miss Margaret Hoover visited her brother, Ralph, Sunday, October fourth. May she visit St. Viator frequently!

CENTENARY OF ORDER.

The centenary of the founding of the order the Clerics of St. Viator, the golden jubilee of the Province, and the golden jubilee of Rt. Reverend Monsignor Legris, will be celebrated at St. Viator College on the first, the second, and the third of November, nineteen hundred thirty-one.

NEW LAURELS FOR REV. P. H. DURKIN

Exalted Rank Bestowed

November tenth of this year will mark the investiture, with the rank of domestic prelate and title of Monsignor, of the Rev. Patrick H. Durkin, pastor of St. Joseph Church, Rock Island. This will be the crowning event of a life that is being unreservedly devoted to the service of God and mankind. It is a signal honor, and is reserved by the Pope for those of his servants who distinguish themselves in their labors for the Church.

Fr. Durkin has, throughout his life, been a devoted alumnus and friend of St. Viator College. In her times of need he has responded nobly through his encouragement and assistance. At one time Fr. Durkin was a student at St. Viator, and later returned as an instructor of Scripture in the theological school of the college.

After his ordination, he acted as assistant pastor of St. Mary's cathedral, Peoria. His next post was that of assistant to the pastor of St. Patrick's church also in Peoria. As pastor of Rantoul, he brought about the construction by the parish of the new church of St. Malachy. Kewanee was the next scene of his activity. The beautiful basilica that is the Visitation Parish's place of worship stands as a lasting monument to the efforts of the pastor and the devotion of his parishioners. The Church is built in the manner of the early Roman basilicas. The magnificent simplicity that characterizes its architecture and decoration are glowing tributes to designer and artist. Leaving this parish he took up the duties of the parish of St. Joseph, Rock Island, where he is pastor at the present time. Wherever Fr. Durkin takes up his tasks there is something of his spirit infused into the atmosphere that blossoms forth in wondrous works.

Throughout his life Fr. Durkin has been one of the outstanding priests in the Peoria Diocese. His words of counsel have made him valuable to friend and parishioner, nor has he been forgotten in the councils of the diocese. He is at present a Diocesan consultant. He is a preacher of great and outstanding merit.

As a builder and constructor, as a pastor, as a man of noble character, he is to be congratulated upon his success and upon the receiving of this great distinction. St. Viator, its student body, its faculty, its alumni, are happy to offer Fr. Durkin their congratulations and best wishes for his future happiness.

Viatorian Air Attack Wins Game

Westray and McNaughton Star

St. Viator blew the lid off their 1931 football schedule with a blast that was heard throughout the Little 19, especially by their future adversaries. Their brilliant victory over the Titans showed the Irish as of old. They were an inspired team. The Irish blocked, passed, and kicked like perfect mechanical men, and judging by the demonstration they're on the road to the pennant. Their offense was a constant threat, while their defense was superb; and the spirit which they demonstrated was not a despairing "do or die," but it was filled with the confidence of a team which knows that it can do and live.

Coach Dahman pulled a stunt, learned from the old master at Notre Dame, when he started what later proved to be the "shock troops"; and what a shock it was to Wesleyan! Wesleyan was pared every time the Irish corn knife made a sweep, whether around the end or through the line. When the Titans got a break the Viatorian regulars were sent to hold the line. Repulsing the Titan attack the Irish regulars delivered one which proved disastrous for the Wesleyanites. The offensive was well planned and was as effective as one of the famous South Bend plays.

Saints Score.

The play that netted the touchdown came early in the second quarter. The Saints had just been penalized fifteen yards for holding, and five yards for being offside. It was first down, thirty yards to go. Westray dropped back to punt but, instead of kicking, he stepped back a few yards and, seeing McNaughton running open across the field, shot him a long pass. The big boy pulled it down and headed for the goal line. Three Titans were there to stop him but Bomba took off two of them and Mac got away from the other easily enough.

Team Balanced.

Westray and McNaughton were the heroes of the day, but as to starring, every man had a share. The ball-carrying of Romary and the plunging of O'Donnell commanded attention because of their continually successful attacks. Westray's punting and Karr's generalship were of high caliber. The above are all veterans, but the recruits also had a part in the show.

Adkins, a fellow who learned his football at Spalding, made a creditable showing at left half. He did the punting and, although his kicks did not travel far, he got all of them off in a hurry. Stringfellow, who was injured at fullback, picked out some nice holes through which he went, making nice yardage.

Line Strong.

From all indications the line promises to be a worthy one. The linemen pierced the Titans wall, and blocked and tackled like champions. The most sparkling play came from two of the recruits, Lon Sarza and Joe Bomba. Lon played at the end position and spoiled many of Wesleyan's plays, frequently brushing aside the interference and tackling the ball-carriers for a loss. And this boy, Bomba, looks like a winner. He smeared the opponents off-tackle plays, went through to block, and, apparently will be a hard man to keep out of any play. His rushing ruined the Titans aerial attack, at times making it impossible for Wesleyan to begin a pass.

Chance To Score.

Aside from the touchdown, the Green Wave had only one other chance to score. Karr returned a punt to Wesleyan's forty-five yard line, and a fifteen yard penalty was imposed on the Titans for tackling him out of bounds. Romary then went off left tackle for ten yards and a first down on the twenty yard line. O'Donnell hit the line for three yards and repeated but Viator was offside. The next play, a cross-back, O'Donnell fumbled, but Westray recovered for a five yard gain. Romary again made first down on the ten yard line. O'Donnell, charging like a battering ram, made three yards at center. Wesleyan took time out. After the intermission, Romary made a yard. O'Donnell then made five yards on a cross-back play, putting the ball on Wesleyan's one yard line. Romary was stopped inches from goal and Wesleyan kicked out of danger.

Titans Fail.

Wesleyan had one chance to score early in the third quarter. A bad pass from center to Adkins when he was to punt was recovered by Wesleyan on the Irish twelve yard line. Williamson made two yards at center. Mitchell added two more at tackle and one at center. Viator was off-side on a pass-play and Wesleyan had a yard to go for first down on the three yard line. The Irish did not give an inch at center and Adkins punted out of danger. This was the only time that the Irish were seriously threatened by the Titans.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

Whenever a newspaper comes out the victor in a libel suit which has been filed against it, there at once arises a chorus of editorial hallelujahs from all over the nation. Under-paid and bored editors pick out on type-writers sonorous and majestic phrases about the integrity of our union depending on the freedom of the press, and the evils consequent on censorship. Quotations from "Areopagitica" are bandied about with careless ease by writers who have heard somewhere that John Milton is dead. Such quotations, aside from their impressiveness, make excellent space-fillers for the editorial. For it seems to be an accepted article of faith in America that the newspaper is an institution, swinging along in a celestial plane, and above all evil, an organ for the expression of holy wrath and righteous indignation, waiting only to point the stern finger of reprimand at some erring alderman or city-sealer who has stepped from the straight and narrow path.

Now, if our newspapers confined themselves to such activities they would certainly merit more praise. But, to most editors, a paper's first purpose is to make money, and to do that in the face of present-day competition means that an editor must exert himself to make his "sheet" just a little more sensational than the next. The truth of a statement, consequently, does not seem to have a great deal of significance, as long as the remark is a startling one. Many papers seem to run on the theory that a person great in the public eye will not demean himself—for win or lose, it is a demeaning process—, by entering libel suit. Theodore Roosevelt once was forced to sue a Michigan editor and although a decision in his own favor was given he did not gain politically.

The whole sum and substance of the matter seems to be that our American newspapers are in the same predicament as the rest of contemporary society,—they cannot distinguish liberty from license.

Student (meeting member of this year's football team)—"Hello, psuedo athlete."

P. A.—"Oh, I'm not any better than the rest of them."

We wish to rescind that remark about the "bridge-playing James Foohey." We have since played bridge with him. But Jim assures us that college is not just a bridge to him. He is humble; he regards it as stepping-stone. Which, after all, is a form of bridge. Anyhow, James is desirous of following in the footsteps of the great John Wana-maker, and is developing his sales-presence in his former bridge time.

George Fleming, holder of last year's high on the Candy Store bowling alleys with a smashing 277, seems to be in quest of another year's title. First game this year—253. Which should stand for awhile . . . . . at least until we get the old arm warmed up. Ahem.

Accepting Middleton's denial of the baby-talking blonde, we are at a loss to explain the sudden change in the manner of combing his hair.

Puff Romary slipped a fast one over on Stu Baker last week in the race for the bizarre pajama championship. Stu came to school in September with a most gorgeous set of yaller things that excited the envy of four corridors for a while. Puffer went to Bloomington last week, tho' and while--in Bloomington of all towns-- he missed getting his touchdown, he returned with a blue set featuring a ferocious yellow dragon. Stu refused to comment upon Puff's new slumber clothes—Puff claiming that he was struck speechless by their magnificence. Stu awaits the arrival of a letter from home and Roy Hall awaits developments.

Speaking of magnificence, all Roy Hall is journeying to the third corridor to view Room 329 since its recent transformation. The occupants of the "Bridal Suite," as Pat Farrell terms it, are matching the bedspreads and drapes. We expect dominoes and drop the handkerchief to run riot on the campus soon.

Much talent is being uncovered among the members of the Freshman class by their investigators, the Sophs. Among the most popular entertainers are Jim Foohey, tap dancer, George Fleming, singer, Charlie Flynn, crooner, Leon Winterhalter, Tom Kelly, and Harry Rutecki, sprinters. Their education is being attended to under the leadership of the eminent Doctor Mearns.

Inquiring Reporter

Question: Who will win the Little 19 football championship?

Clarence Romary: "To pick the potential champions of the Little 19 is a very difficult task at this time of the year. At the present time there have been only a comparatively few conference games; however the teams that are showing considerable strength this year are Illinois College, Carbondale, and Charleston. Illinois College with its veteran line is sure to be in the running. Carbondale, with her veteran backfield and with considerable strength in her green but heavy line, will be hard to stop. Charleston, because of an easy schedule will be sure to win most of her games. She has only two worthy foes, using the rest of the teams as more or less practice games."

James Laffey: "I believe that the Little 19 championship will fall to one of these three teams: Bradley, Millikin, or St. Viator. Bradley, one of the largest schools in the loop, is right up at the top, year in and year out, and this year will probably be no exception. Millikin was undefeated last year and has many veterans back. Viator, the dark horse, should be in the fight all the way. Her line is the best in years and should do much towards grabbing the flag."

G. McNaughton: "It is a rather difficult task to pick the winner of the Little 19 Conference since the majority of the teams have played but one or two games, thus making it impossible to compare them. In making my pick I would limit the title to the three following teams: Bradley, Millikin, and St. Viator. Bradley has been going up against stiff competition, meeting Big Ten teams on two successive Saturdays, and is sure, after this experience to make it hot for the Little Nineteen teams. It is true that they have a new line, but they are big and powerful, and will give plenty of trouble to opposing teams. Millikin, although decisively beaten by St. Louis U. will take a terrible beating before they will give in. St. Viator seems to be the dark horse in the race and with a little more polish probably will bring home the bacon."

"Abhoo" Weber: "It would be foolish to state my opinion as a certainty. Even Grantland Rice hesitates to do that. But judging from my limited knowledge of Little Nineteen teams in general, I think Carbondale will repeat. Although they will miss Evoldi they have a wealth of veterans together with imposing new material. Wisconsin rode over Bradley too easily to incite any great fear of the boys from Peoria. St. Louis, Illinois' docile victim, seemed to find Millikin amenable to the Billikens' determination for victory. If St. Viator, decidedly not a long shot, can submerge Bradley, present dope is apt to be upset. If not—curtains."

"Oc" O'Donnell: "It is difficult at this early date to be doping out the possibilities of the 'Little 19' football sprint. With my most humble apologies to the Railbird of the Chicago American and Leo Fischer of the same tabloid I could dope the race as such. Bradley—big, powerful, experienced. Looks like a winner if they get in the stretch. Used to fast company. Carbondale bears watching. Illinois College. Give them a start and watch them go. Strong in the stretch is St. Viator. The saints may do the unexpected."

Paul LaMontagne suffered a broken arm while attempting a belated rush to class. You have our sympathy, Paul.

TOUR THE U. S.

Father Munsch and Mr. Salg Visit East.

Rev. Father Francis Munsch, C. S. V., and Mr. Werner Salg made a tour of the eastern United States in the latter's automobile during the month of July.

Their travels were filled with interest. Crossing the Appalachians, they entered a land rich in the tradition of culture and bravery. Through the Shenandoah Valley, the scene of some of the clever maneuvers of Stonewall Jackson in outwitting the army of McClellan, they travelled on to the capitol at Washington, D. C. The government buildings, new and old, the Catholic University, at which Fr. Munsch stopped, with those of the Viatorian order who are studying there, all were viewed and admired. Fr. Munsch later returned by train, Mr. Salg continued their journey south, as far as Elizabeth, North Carolina. He inspected the Naval Barracks of the United States at Norfolk, Virginia. It is said that he went fishing, crab hunting, and swimming in the Chesapeake Bay. With what success it is not said. The homes of Washington at Mount Vernon, and the homes of Monroe and Jefferson, both at Monticello, were visited. Of particular interest is that of Jefferson, from the standpoint of architecture. It is the expression of the colonial culture at its height, for Mr. Jefferson was a patron of the arts, as well as a great statesman, and introduced many refinements, principally from the French into the American tradition of architecture. Jamestown, the first permanent English settlement, and William and Mary College, one of the first colleges on this continent were each visited.

The travelers have attested as to the pleasure of their trip, and are all back once more at the College, ready for the manifold duties of another scholastic year.

MRS. A. O'CONNOR NEW NURSE

When the old students returned to the campus, they found that the friendly face of Mrs. C. J. Kennedy that had greeted them in former years was no longer to be seen in the infirmary. Mrs. A. O'Connor, who has lived in Kankakee for a few years is now in charge of this very important post in campus life. We hope that Mrs. O'Connor will enjoy a pleasant year at St. Viator College, and are happy to have her in our midst.

Have you gotten your Empress Eugenie hat yet?
And if so, why?

They're the latest for college freshmen, you know.

Wouldn't Bomba pass for a belle of the Third Empire, though, with an ostrich plume curling coyly around his right ear? (Yes, he would not).

And picture Mustari with a derby-style, while Mancini strutted his stuff with a model of the pan-cake type. O Supreme Potentate of the Most Sacred and Honorable Order of the Kangaroo (and Doc Meany too), think ye deeply and well upon this gem of wisdom.

That Freshman reception the other night had some interesting developments. Ed. Hunt couldn't sing because he had an infection in his elbow. It's fortunate that he didn't sprain a tonsil or get a toothache. He'd be walking on crutches.

Say, did you see that Viator vs. Wesleyan tussle last week? McNaughton and Stringfellow got along like a couple of room-mates. String. heaved a pass so hard that he misplaced a collar-bone, and Mac acted like a baby steam roller, the way he plowed through the opposition for that touchdown.

Shades of Bill Shakespeare!

Red Hayes is evidently far from superstitious. He treated Pat Farrell's mirrors just like Primo Carnera treats his sparring partner's jaw.

Roy Hall—The most typically communistic settlement in America. Everything on the corridor belongs to anybody—ask everybody.

If they get these "humidor packs" any more perfect, it'll be tough even bumming a smoke.

And one day in practice twenty-one aspiring young huskies mistook Doc Meany's noble dome for the pig-skin. Doc's nose looked like he'd been through the laundry.

Yea, we feel sorry for the Freshman who thought Kangaroo Court was a pet name for a social gathering of Freshmen and Upperclassmen. Ah! Yes, we live and learn!

attention to duty as chancellor and vicar general; because of his loyal services to Bishop Dunne, of blessed memory, as well as to myself, for which I wish to express public thanks, and because of his prudent handling of the administration.

"Monsignor Bergan, my sincerest good wishes to you," the Bishop concluded, "congratulations to your good mother and her family, to the cathedral parish and to the diocese of Peoria."

Graduate of Viator in 1912.

Msgr. Bergan entered St. Viator college in 1908, and received his Bachelor's degree in arts in 1912. Leaving for Rome, he studied there until his ordination, having received in 1914 the degree of Master of Arts from the college in recognition of his outstanding scholarship. After his ordination in 1916, he returned to the cathedral as assistant rector. Since then he has been made rector of the cathedral, has served as chancellor, vicar general, and was administrator of the diocese after the death of the late Bishop Dunne for the few months before the appointment of the present bishop, the Most Rev. Joseph H. Schlarman.

College Extends Its Congratulations.

The students and the faculty of St. Viator college are justly proud of this alumnus who has so distinguished himself in the services of his many offices. They extend their congratulations to him, and hope that he may continue to enjoy increasing honor.

SORORITY PLANS CARD PARTY.

The plans which were arranged at our first meeting on Saturday of September thirtieth are to be set aside for some later date. But, at present we are to begin by giving a card party as our first social activity of the year. This card party will, as usual, be held in the Dining Hall on Saturday of October 17. This will enable students to participate in social environment as well as pleasure. Perhaps this affair will not seem to interest a number of our students who have not yet learned the art of card playing. For this group we will include the game of bunc. Either one of these games is, known to all of our students.

As it will be our first social activity, we hope for and are looking forward to a large attendance of students. Now is the time to become better acquainted with your fellow classmates. DON'T YOU THINK—that it is time! You can make friends by attending the social activities that are given.

The bowling team, especially, advertise; that bowling is a great deal of fun as well as exercise; that it will take the kink out of your back; that it is time to get started."

James Carney New Athletic Manager.

James Carney, graduate of St. Ignatius High School of Chicago, succeeds Robert Delaney as Senior Athletic Manager of St. Viator College. Jim is in his fourth year and is a very capable man for this position. He has a wide knowledge of athletics and has been a good athlete himself. As a member of the varsity football and baseball teams he has gained recognition as a hard fighting, consistent player. He will carry these characteristics with him in his new venture, and we hope he will be successful.

On Tuesday morning, September 29, Everett E. Hayes, H. S. '28, was united in matrimony to Miss Yvonne Stoltz. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. A. Darche, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Bradley, Illinois.

Messrs. James Evans, H. S. '23, and Don Girard, H. S. '25, were down last week with their wives to renew old acquaintances. Both said that they intend to return soon, and we are anticipating many more visits.

Three Reverend members of the Alumni have just returned from trips abroad. They are Father Fulton Sheen, Father Charles Hart, of the Catholic University of America, and Father John O'Brien of the Newman Foundation, Champaign, Illinois.

It is with great pleasure that we pass on to the Alumni an announcement which we received August first. On that day Joseph Bolger, '23, claimed Miss Katherine MacDonald of Chicago as his wife. We sincerely congratulate Joe, and to Mrs. Bolger we extend our best wishes for all the best happiness in the world.

M. L. Clancy, '16, is in partnership with T. J. Morgan, a local mortician.

ST. VIATOR OVERWHELMS McKENDREE 24-0

STUDENTS, NOTICE!

On October 23, a pep meeting will be held in the College gym. Every Viator man will be present.

ACTIVITIES URGED

Junior Pleads For United Action.

They tell us that education is merely the preparation for our adult life and consequently we study courses in Latin, Greek, Logic, Cosmology, Psychology, Ontology, Ethics, Biology, Zoology as well as any number of courses that teach us the correct usage and the proper appreciation of the English Language. Now all of these are very practical in the various walks of life and are usually interesting, that however, depends upon the personal tastes of the individual. But no one of these, nor even all of them together can be called a complete preparation for our adult life.

A college diploma is the guarantee of a school, placed upon the student after he has completed his course, which certifies that that student is a cultured product of higher learning, that he is prepared to take up arms against this world, and by complying with its petty formalities, conquer it. There are innumerable seemingly unimportant formalities that must be observed and respected in human society, about many of which the average college graduate knows nothing. Consequently the former college student discovers that his education is not complete and that he must either learn the ways of the world or live a solitary and excluded life. There are few things more tragic than to have a young man's ambitions shattered by discovering that he is not always as welcome as he expected to be, merely because of a breach of society's orders. Every man must have some social contact. The better his contact; the better is his life. But the class of people that he is going to meet and to know depends largely upon his compliance with society's rules or Etiquette.

Therefore, a thorough and complete course in Etiquette should be made a requirement in every college for any degree and the practical experience should be had in the form of social activities. These activities would not only acquaint the student with the rules of Etiquette so that they become habit, but would also tend to give him a sense of ease in the presence of others that is so valuable in the development of personality. If these social activities were to be held in the form of "laboratory work," the course in social etiquette would soon be the most unpopular on the schedule. They should however, be held more often and sponsored by the school, although given by the students themselves. In this way most of the objections to the present day college social activities would be removed and every college graduate could consider himself fit to mingle with any class of society (except of course the lower.) What does it profit a man if he learn all things and suffereth the loss of a chance to prove it.

IN LITTLE 19 CAMPS

It was with sincere regrets that we learned of the unfortunate accident of Curtis Chelstrom of Augustana College. Chelstrom was drowned in Lake Michigan during the past summer. He was captain-elect of this year's basket-ball squad. He also had the distinctive honor of hurling a no-hit no-run baseball game in his Freshman year. Chelstrom was not only a prominent figure in athletics, but was also a leader in scholastic activities.

Illinois Wesleyan had a nice opening day crowd at the Viator-Wesleyan game, many turning out to honor Coach 'Doc' Elliot, to whom the day was dedicated. Incidentally, although Wesleyan lost 6 to 0, the Methodists will be a team to be greatly feared once they begin to function for they have an abundance of Freshman reserve material.

It may be of interest to Little 19 basket-ball fans to know that Wallie Roettger, popular Wesleyan basket ball coach, is enjoying his cut of the world series money, as a member of the St. Louis Cardinals. Wallie was traded to the Cards early in the summer—a lucky break for Wallie.

Football fans down at Carbondale are very optimistic about the coming football season. The Southern Teachers pried off the lid of the current season with a 19-0 victory over the Scott Field Aviators (a non-conference game) and a 6 to 0 victory over Mt. Morris, running their consecutive string of football victories up to twelve and with practically a veteran team intact, the fans have a right to be optimistic.

Although the Redbirds of Normal lost their opening tilt to DeKalb 12-0, Normal is one team that will bear watching this year. Coach Hancock has one of the most promising squads that ever graced Felmev Field and since the winning of the Little 19 Basket ball title last winter they have developed a new spirit at old Normal. That, after all, is the thing that wins ball games. Viator does not play Normal this year in football.

Millikin opens her drive in the Little 19 fight Oct. 23 with Illinois Wesleyan, furnishing the opposition. These Wesleyan-Millikin battles always draw blood. This one should be no exception.

Augustana's tie game with Carthage last Saturday was a costly one when "Bus" Thomas, one of the best ball toters in the conference, suffered a fractured leg. He will be lost for the remainder of the season.

Bradley, always a title contender, if not winner, has played two games winning a decisive victory over McKendree 33 to 0 and losing a well-fought battle to the University of Wisconsin 32 to 7. A Robertson coached machine is always hard to beat, but we have high hopes for the 24th.

Here is news that will be welcomed by all football players—quoting Wilbur Layman in the Lincoln Illinois Courier: "Believe it or not, the well dressed football player now wears a hand protector. Scoff if you will, old timer, but the coaches like the idea and every team in the country may soon be wearing them when, of course, the weather is cold and the gridirons are frozen and hard as concrete sidewalks.

"The hand protector, designed by Bob Coleman, Peorian, is an open-palm affair without fingers, but which fits snugly around the wrist and over the top of the hand to suit the double purpose of keeping the pulse warm and guarding skinned hands and knuckles.

"Coach Bob Zupke at Illinois placed an order immediately, asserting that the protector answered a long-felt need. Bert Ingwersen at Iowa also gave his approval. They interfere in no way in handling or passing the ball."

ST. VIATOR READY FOR BRADLEY TECH

Saints Expect Victory.

On Friday October 24 "The Fighting Irish" from St. Viator will journey to Peoria to resume relationship on the gridiron after a year's absence, in what promises to be one of the most important games of the year. Bradley this year boasts of one of her greatest teams of all time. In her initial appearance the Hilltoppers decisively defeated McKendall 33 to 0, and played the University of Wisconsin on even terms for one half only to weaken in the second frame to lose by the score of 32 to 7. This game, we are informed was much better than the score indicated. Viator in her initial appearance against Wesleyan showed great defensive power and was able to gain momentum offensively. However, if the Irish survive the McKendree game without any casualties they should be in fit form for the Techmen as they have an open date on the 17th, and will have two weeks to make preparations for this all important Peoria event. Bradley, on the other hand, has a very important engagement on the 16th meeting the University of Illinois, which, no doubt means a very busy week-end for any team.

It has been many a year since the Viatorians have defeated Bradley on the gridiron and if the Irish continue to function as they did at Wesleyan fans are optimistic in their outlook.

Pep Meeting Enthusiastic

On the evening of October 2nd, the night before the game with Wesleyan, an enthusiastic "Pep Meeting" was held in back of Roy Hall.

Mr. Martin Toohill, the President of the College Club, was Master of Ceremonies for the evening. At the suggestion of Mr. Toohill and amid much cheering of the crowd Mr. Romary, Mr. Weber, Mr. Bomba and Mr. Gibbons spoke to the student body. These gentlemen spoke with a fire and enthusiasm that infected the crowd and kept things at white heat for the remainder of the evening.

Speaking about heat, the student body was treated to the warmth of a huge Bonfire, erected and set blazing by the Freshman Cohorts of Mr. Rutecki.

A pleasing surprise made its appearance in the person of Mr. Joe Farrell, the new and acrobatic cheerleader. Mr. Farrell whipped up the enthusiasm of the student body to a frenzied pitch and led the students through all the old yells, also adding some new and novel creations of his own.

The highlight of the evening was the dynamic and inspiring speech of Coach Bucky Dahman, in which he requested a better grade of cooperation and support from the student body. He did not speak at any great length but when he finished everyone felt that something had been said.

The meeting came to a close with a highly appropriate speech by the President, Father Maguire. He expressed the sentiment of the entire student body in stating how ardently he desired a victory.

Incidentally we beat Wesleyan.

PATRICK N. FARRELL.

BEAT BRADLEY!

STELLAR IRISH OFFENSIVE WINS DECISIVELY

Green Wave Leads All the Way.

Demonstrating more power and drive than any Viator team of recent years, the Fighting Irish smashed their way to a 24-0 victory over McKendree college in their second game of the present season Friday night. Twenty-nine men made the trip to Lebanon and twenty-two saw action.

St. Viator grabbed an early lead and her goal line was never in danger. The line outcharged and out-fought McKendree from the opening whistle, and the Irish backs ran riot over the enemy's half of the gridiron. Three Irish touchdowns were called back and penalties levied against Viator, but the stubborn local crew promptly made every touchdown over again and made it legally. St. Viator made twelve first downs, while McKendree was able to gather but one. St. Viator was penalized nearly 150 yards, while McKendree lost but 20. Yet the ball was in McKendree territory practically the whole of the playing time.

Westray Stars.

Particularly brilliant was the work of Ken Westray, sophomore half-back of the Irish. Ken broke away consistently for long gains, making runs of 40, 35 and 60 yards. One touchdown by Westray, the result of a 75 yard run, was called back for a penalty, but the Viator star repeated with a 30 yard run on the next play.

Mustari, freshman quarterback, playing his first college game, ran the team with all the headiness of a veteran. O'Donnell, subbing for the injured Stringfellow at fullback, tore the McKendree line to shreds, and scored the first Viator touchdown. Romary was the blocking ace

Cupid's Column

The VIATORIAN is justly proud that it will be able to secure the services of the well known and capable Jack Manners. From time to time he will conduct a column of advice and encouragement to those who are the victims of the erratic darts of that cruel but much sought god, of ancient mythology, Cupid. Mr. Manners has had much experience in this line of work, and is making it the study of a lifetime. For several years he studied under the eminent Dr. Jonathan Whiffle author of such books as "Psychology of the Genus Porcus," and other equally valuable treatises. His keen powers of observation, a brilliant mind, and a retentiveness of memory of remarkable development, have made this young man a rival of many an older philosopher and psychologist.

It may be remarked by some that it is strange that one who claims the position of an authority on amatory psychology, and the ability to advise others in their difficulties should not have been able or at least has not developed any such difficulties for himself. This is obviously the wrong attitude to take of the matter. Does it not seem a better equipment for such a work that the adviser be more or less invulnerable when he undertakes to advise and counsel the vulnerable. His position as an observer, cool and scientific, of the actions of others has made him a better judge of the means to overcome certain difficulties than if he had been in the thick of the conflict.

Mr. Manners will be glad to tender his services to all through this column, and so now he is greeting you for the first time in our publication.

Dear friends, It is with a keen sense of my responsibility as well as of the opportunities to help others through my column that I am greeting you for the first time. Whether the very flattering praise given me by the editor was deserved you may judge for yourself as time goes on, and you will be enabled to make use of whatever advice and consolation I will offer you in your difficulties. May it be understood that I am here to help you solve any problems that may arise, be they concerning ways or ends, that you will meet in your daily life. It will be your way of showing your interest in my column as well as you may by securing what may be very valuable assistance. I remain

Your humble servant,
JACK MANNERS.

Dear Mr. Manner,

One month ago I was engaged to a young lady of no small sum in charm and beauty. It hardly seems possible that so many disastrous events have occurred in this short time. Before this time I did not know that the young lady had a great dislike for anything in the canine kingdom. Now, I am fond, passionately fond, I might say, of dogs, and had as the bright, particular star of my love a large white and golden colored collie, whom we will call Lucy. Now Lucy and I were convinced that we thoroughly understood each other. However, complications did not develop until I arranged a meeting between Lucy and the young lady, whom we will call Isabelle. Lucy and I were to come over to Isabelle's home and take her for a motor ride, it was beautiful spring weather at the time. I knew that both Isabelle and Lucy ill concealed dislike for the other. They had not told me this, but I sensed it very well. Lucy is a dog of great character, and we understand each other's moods very well. Isabelle came out to the roadster. I introduced the two . . . and there followed a tense moment, one which I will never forget. It was filled by their eyes meeting, each filled with ill concealed dislike for each other. It was broken by Isabelle. "Your dog (Lucy dislikes to be called anything other than a canine) is certainly large to be staying in such a small home as yours." Such an impolitic statement, I was horrified, for I knew the devastation that it would work in the development of any understanding between the two. Lucy became rigid. She lifted her aristocratic nose in the air, and sniffed of its perfume. Isabelle started to get into the front seat of the roadster, but miserable dictu!) Lucy refused to move. She was as adamant as Gibraltar—there was much of its stoniness in every line of her face. I cast a glance that was at once pleading and rebuking at her, but she remained firm. Isabelle burst into tears and ran into the house. I ran after her begging her to excuse Lucy, and then becoming angry with her for what she had said. As we drove away, Lucy broke under the strain of the moment. It was too much for her nervous system. She laid her head in my lap and looked up at me with her eyes filled with humble regret, but not submission. I was angry with her, but I could not withstand the power of those loving eyes. I too broke down and sobbed. "Oh Lucy, how could you be so haughty, and ruin my love for Isabelle." At mention of that hated name, Lucy once more set erect and refused to look at me during the remainder of our journey home. It cut me to the heart to see her think so ill of me.

Dear Jack, I have been on the verge of a nervous collapse since that time. It has been a veritable nightmare. Lucy retains her haughty reserve. Isabelle has refused to speak to me over the telephone or in person. In vain have I sought for permission to see her if only for a few moments in the hope that we might find some way to remedy our ills. If Lucy continues in her present state of anger, my heart will break. I had never realized until now how much I really cared for her. I love Isabelle very much, and I feel that she returns my love, but what can I do? It seems that I must choose between the two, and I cannot give up hope of either.

WILLIAM LANSEL.

VIATORIAN STAFF IS COMPLETED

Brother Walsh Adviser.

The staff of THE VIATORIAN is thoroughly organized for the ensuing year. Numerous applications for positions on the paper are being constantly received, and they are welcomed by the Editor. During the coming year unforeseen circumstances may necessitate changes in the staff as it is now organized, and the Editor wishes to assure those for whom he could not find a place at the present writing that their applications shall certainly be borne in mind.

Final additions to the staff were Paul A. LaRocque, Gendron Legris, Martin Toohill, and Thomas Hayes. The first two gentlemen will be in charge of the advertising department. Mr. Toohill will give us a bi-monthly summation of activities of the Little Nineteen through the medium of that well-known column, "In Little 19 Camps." Thomas Hayes will assist the Alumni Editor and, from time to time, will run an "Inquiring Reporter" column.

At this time, as Editor, we wish to thank Brother Walsh, the faculty adviser of THE VIATORIAN, for his invaluable help.

of the backfield, and was no small factor in the success of the plays.

Viator Scores Early.

St. Viator kicked off to McKendree to open the game, and McKendree fumbled on the first play, Viator recovering on their opponent's 4-yard line. O'Donnell carried the ball over for a touchdown in two successive line-plunges, but Mustari missed the kick for point. Score: St. Viator 6, McKendree 0.

St. Viator again kicked off to McKendree. Four successive penalties against the Irish put the ball on the Viator 15-yard line where the local line held McKendree for downs. On the first play, Westray got loose for 60 yards. McNaughton went over into the scoring zone on the next play to snare a pass and make the touchdown. Mustari missed the try for point again. Score: St. Viator 12; McKendree 0.

Viator Eases Up.

The Irish, with the comfort of a 12 point lead behind them, were content to play McKendree on even terms for the remainder of the half. Just before the end of the period, however, Coach Dahman started sending in second string men who were full of the fire of ambition. They carried the ball to the McKendree 14-yard line whence the mite Mustari grabbed a pass and scored again to leave the count at the half favoring Viator 18-0.

The second half found Viator resuming its marches down the field. Westray was getting loose for nice gains, and finally got his chance on the 15-yard line. Cutting off tackle, he ran through the McKendree secondary defense to score the fourth and final Viator touchdown. The try for point failed again.
