Cast of Play Selected; Dismissed Director Hunting New Material

Examinations Play Havoc with Cast of "Marco Millions", and Prof. Ley is Forced to Select New Cast. Hope to Get to Work on Big Production in the Very Near Future.

After a temporary cast had been chosen for the Eugene O'Neill production, "Marco Millions", the director, Mr. Ley, ran into difficulties in the form of semester examinations. It has been decreed by the office of the Dean of Studies that no student having two D's or the equivalent thereof shall be allowed to take part in the production. As a consequence, the entire cast, with the exception of the two principals, has been dismissed and Mr. Ley will begin in the near future to re-select his thespians in order that work on the play may begin as soon as possible. With much valuable time already lost, it will be necessary for the actors to do an immense amount of work in a very short time in order to catch up with their schedule of production.

Two Leads Are Decided.

The two principals have been definitely selected, however, and the part of Marco Polo will be played by John Mehren, of the class of '34. Although Mr. Mehren is but a Freshman, he has had considerable dramatic training before entering St. Viator and has given much promise of unusual ability during his short matriculation here.

The opposite lead, the part of Kukachin, will be taken by Miss Frances Mary Clancy, '32. Miss Clancy has also had considerable experience in dramatic endeavors in the past and is expected to greatly strengthen the play.

College Receiving Aid.

The play has been produced but twice before, once by the New York Theatre Guild, and once by the Chicago Guild. As a result, the staging of the play, with its massive scenes and lavish decorations, is a bit in the experimental stage and will necessitate a great amount of study on the part of Mr. Ley and his assistants. The cast of the play is receiving a large amount of aid from the New York Guild, however, who are helping Mr. Ley in his planning with suggestions from their own play.

The College is planning upon producing the play in one of the downtown Kankakee theatres as soon after Easter as possible.

HONOR ROLL IS MADE PUBLIC

Sixteen Students Listed With Those Attaining Honors for the First Semester

Led by eight Freshmen, the Honor Roll for the first semester was released on Friday by the Office of the Dean of Studies. There is but a lone Senior on the list, Robert Tucker being the only man in the class of '31 to attain the honor. Four Juniors appear on the list, while three Sophomores are listed.

To be on the Honor Roll, it is necessary for a student to carry at least 16 hours of work with a B average. Three honor points are given for every hour of A work, two for every B hour, and one for every C hour.

The list:

NOTICE!

Students, Contributors, and All Whomsoever It May Concern

The next issue of the Viatorian will be an absolutely open, UN-EXPURGATED EDITION. It is our intention to be perfectly frank about everything and everyone. We will print everything and give the general public something of an insight into what is thrown upon an editor's desk in the course of a couple of weeks. We shall delete nothing; we shall call a spade a spade and the Dean a well, get your requests for extra copies in early!

Viator Proves First Victory No Fluke, Blue Demons Are Humbled

Chicagoans Ask to See and Are Shown as the Mighty Midget Quintet Proves on DePaul's Own Floor That They Are Superior Five. Game is Hard-fought.

DePaul lost to St. Viator on December 15 by a score of 13-12. DePaul had not been beaten in two years. DePaul believed herself invulnerable on her own floor. DePaul had visions of a national championship. And thereby hangs a tragedy.

For two months the Blue Demons have been loud in proclaiming that 13-12 affair an accident—one of those things which happen to every good team once in a while. For two months, the Blue Demons have told the good people of Chicago and the State of Illinois just what was going to happen to a certain St. Viator when said upstart invaded the DePaul floor. And for two months, St. Viator has gone on her way, quietly acquiring victories and avoiding defeat until they stepped on the floor of the DePaul gym with a record of eleven straight wins and no losses. When they stepped off that floor, the record stood at twelve consecutive wins and no defeats, and the score board read: St. Viator 30, DePaul 28.

PRACTICE MEETS FOR DEBATERS

Competition is Keen; Rookies Show Class; Title Hopes Rise

The semester examinations being over, the members of the Bergin Debating Society are engaging in strenuous daily practice sessions in a valiant effort to be in Congressional condition when the negative team from Bradley Polytechnic Institute of Peoria opens the season here on Thursday, March 12. On the following evening the local negative team will swing into action at Bloomington against Prof. William N. Fulton's Illinois Wesleyan proteges. From that time on until the middle of April, both local squads will be constantly busy in convincing debate judges of the logicity of their arguments.

Regular Practice Debate Held.

A full time practice debate was held last Friday afternoon under the able direction of the Rev. J. A. Lowney, C. S. V., coach of this season's forensic teams. Although no decision was rendered, both teams gave an excellent account of themselves and showed ample evidence of careful preparation in their respective arguments. Paul LaRoeque, former Academy debater who showed much promise in last year's tryouts under the unusually heavy competitive conditions, has acquired a solid working knowledge of this year's difficult question and is considered as likely varsity timber. Raymond Wenthe, '33, and Francis Larkin, '32, each delivered an excellent speech, both of which were quite logical and clear. John Mehren, Patrick Farrell, John Burns, James Dugan, and Robert Nolan, all members of the class of '33, served eloquent notice on the older men that they are to be considered in the struggle for berths on this year's teams.

Because of the success of the first practice debate, it is planned to make such sessions weekly affairs so that all the candidates may have a complete course in the difficult art of debating before the season opens. Although some of the fledgling as-

And in the scant hour and a half that those two teams stood on that floor and played heart-breaking basketball, the Blue Demons learned that it takes considerable more than big talk and an impressive record to beat a team from St. Viator. They learned that St. Viator had taken that old away-from-home complex and stowed it in some convenient rain barrel. They learned that a new coach can be just as smart in handling his players as an old one.

Game is Fast.

The game opened fast, and both sides were anxious to score. There was none of the cautious feeling-out that occurred in the first meeting of the two outfits at Viator, and both teams whanged away at the basket with a will. The lead changed constantly throughout the half, with DePaul sinking a long one just before the gun sounded to tie the score at 14 all.

The second half was a more breath-taking repetition of the first. The lead changed hands constantly, and neither team could draw away to commanding advantage. Viator took the lead at the opening of the period, but quick baskets by Joe O'Connor, Ascher, and Laritus sent the Demons ahead. Viator tied it up, and the stands yelled themselves hoarse.

Dramatic Finish.

The last five minutes of the game will last forever in the memory of all who witnessed the affair. DePaul led 27-25, and were fighting desperately to retain their advantage. Almost the whole of St. Viator's student body was in the DePaul gym, and the Irish rooters were frantically imploring the team for a basket. Both teams were battling for the break that would put the game on ice. Romary drew up in mid-floor and dropped in a beautiful shot to tie the score at 27 all. DePaul made a mad rush for the tip, but Viator secured the ball and Romary again broke loose to count. DePaul was frantic. In the next tip-off, a DePaul man was fouled and made the shot

Truth and Justice

"Truth and Justice are all for one (for truth is but justice in our knowledge, and justice is but truth in our practice)." Whatever criticism may attach to other Miltonian sayings is, I believe, reduced to a nullity by the wisdom which Milton infused into this remark.

What would the application of this to our beloved country bring before the investigator? It might very possibly disclose a national mind so darkened by puritanical prejudices, as represented by "prohibition," that it does not possess the power to conceive of what is the essence of Truth and, moreover, a nation's hand so palsied that it, most waveringly, leads a people towards the abode of Justice. The study would reveal mothers and fathers trying to rear and educate their families on grossly inadequate incomes; economic evils, cleverly hidden by the men of "high finance" who profit by them, would gape before an amazed public. We are told that increased production will alleviate present suffering. Consider, then, why is not this phenomenon brought about by those who have the means of production? Why are the majority compelled to labor at the beck and call of Ten per cent, or less, of the inhabitants of this, the "most prosperous" country? Think over these things for, otherwise, how will the nation be brought out of chaos into the light?

The "America," in an article by Paul L. Blakely, S. J., very precisely and emphatically puts its finger on one of the facts now made evident to us: "To begin with, no country in the world is invested with capital so avaricious and arrogant. The successful corporation lawyer is a man who can drive through any mesh of laws with a coach and six, and not be pulled up by the police at the door of the state penitentiary." Are Truth and Justice merely names, or are they vital parts of our governmental life? This question we may well pause to ponder.

After a most interesting thesis class the other day, a remarkable change took place in the actions of the Senior class. The librarian has been rushed so much in aiding the industrious Seniors that she sent out a general call for aid from the underclassmen.

Athletic interest is growing very fast on the campus. Boxing, fencing, wrestling, swimming, tennis, and track are the coming prospects for Viator athletic honors. Every young man should come out for their various sports, as material is needed by the coaching staff.

CAMPUS BRIEFS

"Bill" Kane, coming banjo player, has announced his intention of giving a recital for the development of the aesthetic in certain individuals that dominate the campus.

The Senior League is drawing to a close. The teams that have a chance to win the coveted title are really fighting—(what I mean, really fight. Ask Joe Murphy), to win the rest of their games.

The dramatic squad was cut a few days ago by the Dean of Studies, and members and actors, such as Hunt, Carroll, Clifford, Anderson, Cleary, Hoog, etc., are royally ostracized due to their scholastic decline.

Laffey has been dubbed the silver-voiced hog-caller. We can't give any reason for this title, outside of the fact that he makes himself very obnoxious with his nocturnal habits.

Salg and Wenthe are the crooning troubadours of the campus, winning over Ed Hunt and "Oo" O'Donnell by a majority of five to three.

Carney and His Shadow (P. Christman) are doing some tall roving about the campus here of late. We wonder if the two love-sick chuckers are planning to pull out another bag of jokes and witty sayings.

Ask Mooney to tell you about his troubles. The poor boy has been walking about looking so distressed that the entire student body is anxious to know his therapeutic condition.

Burly Logan, the ambidextrous pole climber, is giving a series of lectures with full demonstrations included, in his room, 201, each evening from eight o'clock till ten o'clock. P. M. Burly is very desirous of exhibiting his pole climbing skill with the purpose of electrifying the student body.

Ask E. Hunt which room on the second corridor is the one that arouses his ire. It seems that Ed just despises this kind of work.

Has anyone noticed how melancholy Snake Karr has been of late? Since he is not a brother misogynist we are forced to draw the conclusion that love has entered Snake's environment.

"Hack" Tucker is developing into a regular modernistic playboy. He takes delight in fooling certain young men on the campus.

The young men that room on the fourth floor, and who have that obnoxious radio set, had better break it up and use it for kindling wood. It creates more disturbance and static than "Ahboo" Weber.

As the story goes, the Shea Brothers are very busy entertaining their guests. According to "Bung Jr." the guests will probably stay with them for another week or so. Everyone is cordially invited to meet the guests of the Shea Brothers, at a grand reception in Room 202.

WHEATON DROPS
GAME TO IRISHViator Has Easy Time
Trimming Wheaton for Second Time This Season

Viator added another victory to their already impressive record of eight consecutive wins by drubbing Wheaton College, 37-20. It was the second time this season that the up-state boys suffered defeat at the hands of the Irish.

Two newcomers made their debut on the home floor in the personage of "Red" Hayes and "Brud" Cassidy. Hayes, although he has seen little action, played a veteran's game at the center position. His fight and determination won him a big hand from the start of the game and encouraged him to four baskets and two free throws, making him high point man for the evening. Cassidy, a letter man from last year, has just returned to school and will prove invaluable to the Irish. The wit and aggressiveness which characterized his playing last year was evident every minute that he was in the game.

The Green Wave flashed the strongest offense seen on the home floor this season. Five minutes after the battle had started they held a commanding lead which was never in danger and constantly increasing. They clicked with perfect timeliness and most of their shots were good for two points.

Coach Dahman substituted a whole new team the second half, and what was evident in the first five was certainly lacking in these. They failed to continue the pace and class of ball exhibited the first half and the Wheatonites took advantage of it by outscoring them. However, the lead was too great for them to overcome and they remained on the short end of the count.

The game was thrilling enough from the Irish viewpoint, but their supporters are looking forward to their clash with Illinois Wesleyan, which will determine to a large extent the class of the Little Nineteen.

TALKIES VERSUS MOVIES

Before we undertake to criticise the talkies, we must take into consideration the fact that they are not what they will be in a few years to come. To use an old phrase, they are still in their infancy. The improvements that have been made in them since we first saw a talking picture are many and varied. For instance, the tone quality of the sound reproducers, and the advent of movie-tone; that is, the recording of the sound on the same film with the picture, by light and dark shading along the edge of it which makes for better synchronization of sound and motion. The first Vitaphone, and Movie-tone apparatus and many of the latest machines are installed in theatres that were never designed acoustically for the volume of sound that the screen of a talkie picture. For sometimes comes to one's ears from example, the many battle scenes in the recent war pictures. In the building of new theatres, acoustical engineers are contributing their bit towards the perfection of sound pictures. Besides this, who can tell what may come from the laboratories of the producers?

Before the advent of talking pictures the requirements of a movie-actor were good looks, fair acting, and features that would photograph well. Now a movie-actor's requirements are practically the same as those of an actor on the legitimate stage, plus the ability to pass the screen tests. Even stage presence in my estimation means as much on the screen as it does on the stage. An actor who in the pre-talkie period thrilled his audience by pantomime is now forgotten if he can not use his voice to the same effect. And what can sway an audience, thrill them, bring joy or sorrow to them, excite all their emotions better than the spoken word? We all have seen, for example, "news flashes" of prominent men making speeches at important gatherings. Before we saw them in sound we all had a desire to know what they were talking about. Now we hear not only their speeches, but the applause or disapproval of the crowds. Every person in the theatre receives the message the speaker is delivering to his audience, where a few years ago the same audience saw merely gestures and lip movement. It was like watching a mute person attempting to recite.

As far as music is concerned, and it certainly is concerned a great deal with the moving picture industry, I am personally thankful for the sound pictures. Where before they came into popularity, the musical effects were contributed by a local organist or piano player, and in rare instances an orchestra, the quality of said music was determined by the skill of the local musician which, more often than otherwise was rather poor. Now one hears the music of symphony orchestras, great singers, and soloists in his home town at a very reasonable charge. Talkies bring to the people in small towns, actors, singers, and musicians from the legitimate stage that before they only heard of in newspaper comments. It would not have been worth the actor's or singer's time to give a recital in the smaller cities.

Has the reader ever been in a silent movie theatre when for some unaccountable reason there was no music? For instance, during the musicians' strike a few years ago in Chicago? If ever there was a more unnatural form of entertainment I have never heard of it. To see people going through a lot of motions, registering fear, hatred, anger, love, joy, etc., without a sound coming from their mouths, would for me, turn the greatest tragedy ever written into a very good comedy indeed. The mere musical accompaniment to the silent pictures was all that saved the mfrom being a thing of the past long, long ago. The printed words helped some, but there was always something lacking.

We'll say for instance, that a great tower is blown up with dynamite. There is a great cloud of smoke, the building topples, and comes down WITHOUT a crash. Perhaps an organist has done his best to provide the crash, but some organists have perverted ideas of crashes. Today one hears a genuine charge of dynamite shot off, the building topples, and comes down with a crashing sound, made by the actual falling of the building and recorded on the spot by the movie-tone camera. The result is that every one in the theatre feels almost as though he were present when the building was destroyed. The same applies to the lines spoken in a play. The woman is terrified, she shrieks, as only a woman can shriek, the sound coming to the ears of the audience thrills them as their eyes record the struggle she is having with the villain. The effect is complete, the audience appreciates it more. Their attention has not been held alone by the actions of the characters, but also by their speeches. Their whole attention has been held and they have been entertained, whether it be intellectually or otherwise. Imagine if you can, a crowded court room, the prisoner is standing to receive the verdict of the jury, then the scene changes and printed words appear on the screen telling the audience that the defendant is guilty of murder in the first degree. Another court room scene, the crowded room, the prisoner standing to hear the verdict of his fellow men, freeing him or condemning him to death. There is not a sound throughout the room. "Your Honor," come the words of the foreman, "we have found the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree." The crowd gasps, a groan escapes the lips of the condemned man, there breaks out a babel of conversation throughout the hall till the pounding of the judge's gavel silences them. In the first case contact is broken with the actors and their audience. In the second, that magnetic contact which exists between all good speakers and their audiences is unbroken and their attention is not distracted from the action and fovement of the play. When an actor speaks it is expected that he speak and it is natural for him to speak. It is not natural for a picture to speak, I agree. Neither is it natural for a picture to move, but when it both moves and speaks, it becomes very, very natural indeed.

The only conclusion I can draw is that the talking pictures are not only more natural and more entertaining, but they also bring to the public better music, better actors, and a higher class of entertainment. And friends, they did away with the unthinking, ill-bred, obnoxious, nit-witted, log-grade moron that took great delight in reading sub-titles. aloud. Discounting musical comedies and some of the poor scenarios that the producers hand to the public, the talknig pictures are a good thing for the people. Remember also, that we had poor scenarios before a talkie was ever heard of.

CAGE TEAM TO TRAVEL AWHILE

Irish Leave Home Floor For Remainder of the Month to Play Lot of Strong Outfits

After annexing eight of their current run of victories on the home floor, the St. Viator basketball team, leaders of the Little Nineteen loop, will spend the next month on the road.

St. Viator has defeated some of the best teams in the Middle West on the Bourbonnais floor, and will meet many of the same outfits during the trips. The home season for February ended with the Illinois Wesleyan game, leaving the Irish with DeKalb, DePaul, Millikin, Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, and Bradley to play away from home before returning for the final home game of the season against Elmhurst on March 3rd.

Jinx Travels With Team.

Always a hard team to beat on their home floor, the strength of this year's Irish squad on foreign courts had yet to be proven at the time of the Wesleyan encounter. The Green Wave has never been noted for its submerging properties on other floors than its own, and the team had almost come to consider itself jinxed on the road until this year. This season, however, the Irish are under the direction of a new coach, and count on Bucky to do much towards averting the string of defeats which seem to always follow a traveling Viator team. This year's outfit is also one of the greatest teams ever to play under an Irish banner, and do not take much stock in such things as jinxes and hard luck. The performance of the team thus far on enemy courts proves that Viator has gone a long way towards eliminating the jinx, and Old Man Hard Luck is expected to be completely routed before the season ends.

Bonfield

One main street that's awfully rough,
Two grocery stores, well, that's enough,
A barber shop in the middle of the block,
An ice cream parlor, where you get ice cold pop.
A train pulls out once a day,
The elevator will be twenty-two in May,
A hardware store where things are hard,
And two blocks north the old graveyard.
The only things that are up to date
Are the school house, where we meet our fate,
A quarry or two, where they blow our rocks,
Some phosphate bins—an old tile dock.
A baseball diamond where we lose and win—
It's a good old town for the shape it's in!

Francis Taylor, '34.

Shurtleff, last year's runner up, is certainly a long way from the top now. There is one consolation for the Pioneers, they can't be on the bottom as long as Wheaton is still in the Conference.

Which tempts us to wonder just how good North Central's claim to the title should be if the Northerners should come through the remainder of the season undefeated and the Irish lose a game or two.

Editor's Comment

Well, examinations are over and the atrocities of this sheet are still committed in the name of ye ancient editor. From which you may infer that we have passed an hour or two. We got one "F", but we also have some nice new specs, so there will be no "F's" for the card next semester. And if we can get that abused look down before next June, we may even be a straight A.

We read an editorial in the Elm-Bark stating the Elmhurst is joining hands with Augustana in the great campaign to debunk the popular idea of college life as revealed through the movies and cheaper works of fiction. We feel as though we should make some sort of a comment, although we hardly know just what to say.

We wish to thank the DePaulia for their characterization of us as "an ambitious young writer." After a crack or two like that, we are tempted to give up this profession in despair. This is the fifth publication to which we have lent our somewhat doubtful journalistic talents, and the third which we have edited. Ah, well.

The cut of Ralph Karr in this issue is printed at the request of De Pauw University. You're welcome, rival!

The advent of the Senior League has made a few changes in the personnel of the Staff of the Viatorian. Double Dribbles, a column for which we have a paternalistic sort of interest since it was our own last year, is under the direction of Wib Callahan. Jimmy Dugan will do the Third Corridor, while John C. Boyle will keep track of the standings of the teams. John Mehren has been given an indefinite assignment. His duty is to hand us a thousand words every two weeks. What a job!

The Social Sorority certainly provide us with more articles than any other campus organization.

EXCHANGE

Via the "Lincollian" of Lincoln College has come word that men are going to usurp the "woman's place in the kitchen." Henceforward the gentlemen of Lincoln will wear the apron, for a course in home economics for men only is being instituted.

VERSES

"True, 'tis a sad, sad story,"
Said the warden, erasing a tear;
"But don't be alarmed, he's harmless;
The poor chap laboring here.
"He slaved in a college laundry,
And the world seemed bright and clear;
As he merrily busted buttons
Off the students' underwear.
"But alas! The whole world darkened.
And so the story goes,
Zippers replaced the buttons
On all the students' clothes."
"Violent?"—"No, in the kitchen
He glows as he shells the peas;
The poor chap thinks they're buttons
Off the students' B. V. D's."

Rather than buy a new book for two weeks of classes, several students at the University of Oregon "pooled their resources" and bought the book and presented it to the library.

From "The Ram" comes this solace to the student who flunked his Math Major:

"When the marks are being read,
don't despair. Remember, 'EINSTEIN FLUNKED MATH'."

St. Viator College Extension Club

Mr. James J. Cronin, an alumnus who attended St. Viator College 1921-23, called on Father O'Mahoney recently to report that he has established himself in the grocery business in San Francisco, California. To assure Father O'Mahoney that business was good in California, Jim took out a thousand dollar insurance policy and donated it to St. Viator College Endowment Fund.

Mr. James Toolan, A. B., a member of the 1928 graduating class redeemed his pledge made at graduation to contribute to St. Viator College Endowment Fund. Jim has given an Endowment policy for one thousand dollars to the St. Viator College Extension Club. Mr. Toolan is employed by the Western Electric Co., Chicago, Illinois.

Mr. Lucius Wall, 1908-09, is also one of Viator's loyal sons who has joined the Founders of St. Viator College Endowment. Mr. Wall very graciously subscribed for a thousand dollar endowment policy when Father O'Mahoney called on him recently in his law office, Security Bldg, Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Father O'Mahoney had a very pleasant surprise on Wednesday, February fourth, when four former members of St. Viator College faculty, Mr. Charles Marino, Mr. James Drain, Mr. Louis Pommier and Mr. John Meany called on him at the Provincial House in Chicago. Mr. Marino is engaged in a furnishing and athletic goods store in Klamath Falls, Oregon. Mr. Drain is teaching at St. Philip's High School, Chicago. Mr. Pommier is with the law department of the Chicago Title & Trust Co., and Mr. Meany is the proprietor of a restaurant in Blue Island, Illinois.

Rev. Henry J. Walsh of Holy Rosary Parish, Pullman, Illinois, a friend of the Viatorians, recently contributed a thousand dollar endowment policy to the St. Viator College Endowment Fund.

CRITIQUE

February 12, 1931.

Dear Editor Hoover:

As your position commands quite a bit of influence in all campus activities, why don't you apply your efforts in arranging with the Athletic Department for an intra-mural track and swimming meet? Such contests could be put on with little or no expense and would provide an unestimable amount of good for the whole student body. As it is now, only candidates for swimming are given encouragement to splash about in the school's wonderful pool. I am sure that there are many excellent track aspirants in the school for I have noticed quite a few flying humans setting new marks between Roy Hall and the Refectory every morning at 7:39½. We have intra-mural basketball teams, so why can't we have at least a one-day intra-mural track and swimming meet? No doubt you will have some trouble in exciting interest in the above proposed events, but such a condition could be alleviated by offering individual packages of cigarettes and matches—two items which are held in a monopoly by about one-eighth of the student body.

Sincerely yours,
Gill Middleton.

Social Sorority Gives Big Valentine Party

For the approval of the students of the College, the Social Sorority of St. Viator gave a Valentine party at the College on St. Valentine's Day, February 14.

Bridge, five hundred and bunco were played during the evening, the affair attracting a goodly number of the College men. An exchange of Valentines brought considerable merriment at the close of the evening. Our debunker not being present, we cannot adequately describe the refreshments.

But then we are allowed to read a cheering letter from Paul Fuertges of Bradford, Illinois, and our spirits go up a bit. Thanks, Paul, St. Viator will be looking for you.

ALUMNI

Edward DesLauriers, Sophomore in the College Department has entered the Viatorian novitate at Lemont, Illinois. He is a brother of Brother Francis DesLauriers, now pursuing his collegiate course under Father Munsch.

Rev. John Finn, of St. Mark's Church, Chicago, has recently enriched the library of St. Bernard Hall by a donation of a shelf of travel books and a Catholic Dictionary.

Brother John Ryan has been transferred from Washington to Springfield, Illinois, where he is teaching in the Viatorian High School.

Brother Eugene Suprenant has been transferred to Lemont, Illinois. Both Brother Suprenant and Brother Ryan will be ordained in June.

Brother Wilkins dropped in to St. Bernard for a visit. He is now stationed at Springfield, Illinois, and is recovering from a recent illness.

Father Daniel O'Connor and Father Sees of the Viatorian High School in Springfield, Illinois, are reported on the high road to recovery after recent illnesses.

Father Frank Cleary of St. Edmund's, Watseka, Illinois, is a frequent visitor at the basketball games and is a confirmed Irish fan.

Father Rien Pigny of St. Louis Church, Kensington, Illinois, is planning an extended tour of Europe and the Holy Land. He will leave in February and plans to be gone six months.

Raymond Sprague, '30, now a student at St. Paul's Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota, visited at the College last week during his mid-year vacation.

Two former Viator athletes are going to the major leagues this summer. "Lefty" Laenhardt has signed a contract with the Boston Red Sox and will go South late this month to begin Spring training. Mike Delaney, one of Viator's greatest all-round athletes and the former Academy coach, has signed with the Boston Browns. Mike is a great pitcher. Both of the boys visited here for the Wesleyan game.

Paul Mills, '30, of Champaign, was here for the Freshman dance.

William A. ("Fish") Sammon, '12, an old Viator athlete, and his nephew, Gene Sammon—also "Fish"—dropped in last Saturday on their way to Bloomington. Bill is practicing law in Chicago, and Gene is an acoustical engineer with the John-Mansville Corporation in Milwaukee.

And another Critique just came in. Thanks, Gill, and not a bad idea for a "Crusade." We'll race you five times around the track and twice up and down the pool for the glory of none concerned.

The renowned Mr. Thomas Ahern, catcher of the St. Viator College baseball team, honored us with his presence on the corridor last Wednesday. We greatly appreciate the honor and hope that he will soon be with us again. Mr. Ahern remarked that since his last visit, which he makes annually, the appearance of the corridor has not changed one bit.

320, owned and operated by Callahan, Custer, and Dugan, Inc., was the headquarters for the Bloomington contingent on the evening of the Wesleyan game. Practically all of Trinity High, in that fair city, came up to see the Viatorians take Wesleyan.

We are glad to welcome William Rutherford of Peoria into our midst. Here's to him, fellows, drink heartily!

Some of the fellows thought that they saw a ghost down the corridor the other night. It turned out to be Doc Meany, however, attired in pajamas and derby, out for a stroll.

While we're thinking of Middleton, read that nice article on the debating team. Who was the anchor man of the negative, anyhow, Gill? Modesty, thy name is Middleton.

IRISH DOMINATE LITTLE 19 TITLE RACE

TRADITIONAL FOE BOWS TO IRISH

Illinois Wesleyan Loses 23-18 Encounter on Irish Floor Before Packed House

Before one of the largest crowds ever to fill the mammoth Viator gym, Illinois Wesleyan fell victim to the ministrations of a heartless Viator crew by a score of 23-18, on the evening of February 6th.

The game was attended by all the brilliance and display that marks the traditional meeting of the two teams. The crowd, packed from door to door and overflowing onto the running track overhead, was composed almost equally of Titan and Irish rooters. Wesleyan brought a forty-piece band with them to help in the cheering and a goodly portion of the city of Bloomington followed the team here.

Piling up victory after victory, the Irish have attracted a following that grows steadily larger with every game. The newly acquired Kankakeians turned out to support the Viatorians with all the ardor of ancient fame, and neither side lacked for an adequate cheering section. The Viator-Wesleyan game is one of the events in the calendar of both schools, and nothing was lost in the way of enthusiasm, color, or good basketball in this year's meeting.

Viator Starts Fast.

The Green Wave started its job of submerging the Titans in the first few minutes of play, and three baskets in quick succession gave St. Viator a six-point lead. Illinois Wesleyan came back to drop in a field goal, but Viator retaliated with two more and the score stood at 10-2. Wesleyan caged a beautiful long shot and soon added a free throw to bring the score at the half to Viator 10, Wesleyan 5.

Second Half Fast.

Wesleyan and Viator were both anxious at the opening of the second half, and each missed a few easy ones. Wesleyan came to first and made a basket to reduce the Irish lead to three points. The basket seemed to awaken the Viatorians, for they quickly popped in two more field goals to again take a substantial lead. The Titans were never again close, although a belated rush in the last few minutes of play brought them to within five points of the Irish total.

Viator in Top Form.

The Irish were in the pink, and every man was playing the game of his life. Captain Clothier had the job of holding down the much feared Meehan and proved so effective that that gentleman registered but once. Puff Romary led the Green scoring with nine points, and Al Furlong's three field goals and a free throw gave him second place with seven markers. Karr and Clothier also broke into the scoring column with five and two points respectively. While Laffey and Hayes failed to score, their presence was felt by the Titans from the opening moment of play until the final pop of the timer's gun.

The victory gave the Irish their tenth consecutive victory of the season and ended the home stay of the team until March 3rd, when they return to end the season with Elmhurst on the Viator floor.

The box score:

Fighting Irish Guards

CAPT. KEN CLOTHIER

FRANK CASSIDY

RALPH KARR

St. Viator's reputation as a defensive team is built largely around this trio of guards. Captain Clothier is rated as one of the best guards in the Little Nineteen while Karr is one of the most colorful players ever developed at the Irish school. Cassidy, a star as a Freshman, re-entered Viator at the semester and immediately began to play bang-up ball.

In Little 19 Camps

After reading the Lawrence Jones account of the standing of the Little Nineteen, we are a bit at sea as to just who and what is which. We learned, for instance, that St. Viator "would very probably add two more Conference victories to their string by defeating DeKalb and DePaul."

Well, here is Monmouth again. And what are we going to do with her? The Scots have an unblemished record to date, and may lay claim to the Little Nineteen title. They have, however, two games with Illinois Wesleyan yet to play. An even break, with Monmouth's limited Little Nineteen schedule, would just about eliminate that danger.

And look who North Central has yet to play! Wheaton, Macomb, and Lake Forest. The College at Naperville has a great team this year, although their competitive schedule is limited to two meetings with Millikin.

With Millikin, Normal, Wesleyan and Bradley yet to play, the Irish have their work cut out for them to retain their hold on first place in the Little Nineteen. It seems that every year the combination of St. Viator, Millikin, Illinois Wesleyan, and Bradley cut each other all up and give the weak sisters of the Conference their chance at the title. Last year Carthage and Shurtleff got the break. This year it will be Monmouth and North Central. Who the deuce ever started a Conference of this size, anyhow?

TO ORGANIZE BOXING TEAM

Another Sport Makes Its Appearance Here With Erection of Ring and Coming of Coach

Another new sport is taking its place on the Viator campus with the erection of a regulation boxing ring in the handball court in the gym. A number of hopeful Viator future Dempseys are working out in the ring each afternoon under the direction of Mr. William Corcoran, formerly of St. Louis University.

Mr. Corcoran has about eighteen candidates under his charge and reports that they look good, fair, and indifferent. If the candidates show sufficient promise, a boxing team may be organized by the College to represent the school.

It has been the custom in previous years to erect a ring in the gym during Lent and to hold impromptu cards on the Saturday nights of that season. The cards last year usually called for about six bouts, ending with a heavyweight feature or two. The bouts were always well attended, and an unusual amount of interest was displayed in the affairs. Most of the bouts were hard-fought, and a number ended in knockouts. Many of the fighters competed every Saturday night until defeated, Al Furlong finally ending the heavyweight season without a blemish on his record.

Because of the record of former years and the ability of Mr. Corcoran, it is expected that this year's classes will be more than successful.

Students Follow Team To DePaul in Big Bus

The DePaul game was the occasion of a general exodus from the Viator campus. In every way, shape and form, the students followed the team to the game to root for a win. A number of the resident students chartered a bus and seats were at a premium within a few hours after the news was made public. A block of fifty seats originally reserved for Viator students was quickly over-sold as the Irish fans poured into Chicago to cheer for the team.

Double Dribbles

Joe Murphy, one of Carroll's Vanities, holds the lead in local basketball circles as the Senior League's ablest fouler. Joe keeps the officials busy blowing their whistles and trying to decide whether the fouled player should get one or two shots, or if he should be carried from the floor.

The Delinquents started their race for the flag with a bang, but have slumped, and are now living up to their name.

The Dreadnaughts and the Monks are real rivals. John McGrath of the former team and Madigan of the latter seem to have settled their misunderstanding during the game. This affair may have been the immediate cause of the erection of the ring in the handball court.

"Coon" Mooney, with a revamped lineup broke into the win column after a long absence.

Wm. Cedric Gibbons, the Minonk Express, has announced to the officials of the League that he will begin direct training for boxing immediately. Whether the committee controlling the basketball in the Senior League will permit this move on the part of Mr. Gibbons remains to be seen. Those familiar with the cause of King Arthur Shires of the White Sox last year, will watch the case of Mr. Gibbons with much interest.

Nearly every form of sport has, at some time or other during the season, found its way into the basketball games. Pat Cleary ran the length of the gym the other evening with two would-be tacklers hanging on his shoulders. He touched the ball to the floor under the basket, and the referee ruled the play out of bounds. Tommy Ahern has thrown the ball with his lightning speed, probably in an effort to catch a man stealing. Shufitowski has a Helen Wills effect to his return passes.

Those wishing to send in their all-star teams, are requested to take them to the power house and leave them just inside the door of the main boiler.

Fr. John A. O'Brien of the Newman Foundation at the University of Illinois was a recent visitor here.

TAKE WIN NO. 11 FROM DEKALB FIVE

Irish Greatly Strengthen Title Hopes by Over- time Win; DeKalb Shows Power

The mighty Teachers quintet from DeKalb, Illinois, came mighty close to tossing a monkey wrench into the championship hopes of the Irish on the evening of February 11, and St. Viator barely escaped with a 32-30 overtime victory.

St. Viator knew that DeKalb was strong. That 12-11 affair the Teachers had with North Central had served adequate notice on the Irish that dynamite lay in the Teacher's game, but they anticipated no such stubborn resistance as was exhibited. DeKalb was set for St. Viator, while the Irish regarded the game rather more or less as just another duty occurring before the all-important DePaul event of the evening to follow.

Viator Starts Strong.

The Irish started strong, playing DeKalb off their feet, and held a 20-12 advantage at the half. The Viator offensive was functioning with all the perfection it has displayed all year, and the defense was quite up to snuff. A large number of personal fouls were called on both teams, with DeKalb sinking more than St. Viator to stay in the running.

Teachers Come Back.

In the second half, the Teachers started an unexpected rally, and swept the Viatorians off their game. Before the Irish knew what was happening, the Teachers were on even terms, and they were forced to extend themselves to stay on even terms until the end of the game. The final gun sounded with the score deadlocked at 28 all.

With the stands in pandemonium, begging for a victory over St. Viator, the Irish took immediate possession of things in the overtime and scored two baskets in rapid succession to sew up the game. DeKalb also scored two points in the overtime to leave the final score at St. Viator 32, DeKalb 30.

Furlong High Point Man.

Al Furlong, Viator center, was having the time of his young life, and scored six baskets and a free throw to lead the Irish offensive with thirteen points. Puff Romary had four baskets and three free throws for second place in the scoring with eleven points. Dudley kept DeKalb in the race with three baskets and three free throws for a total of nine points and high score for his team. Every DeKalb man broke into the

CONFESSIONS OF A DEBUNKER

A Journalist Discloses Secrets Peculiar to His Trade

By FRANCIS LARKIN
Our Star Reporter

"Herb" Hoover took advantage of me. There I was doing my duty by the Chair of English, and he drags me out of my ecstasy to the prosaic world of bread and butter, telling me with profuse and profane invectives to get to work on one of my masterly articles, or forfeit my literary position to "enfer." And here am I without a single thing to debunk, and a whole column to do it in.

It has been said that a person is most eloquent and convincing when talking about himself. Consequently, any suckers who want to finish this delectable literary tidbit, get set for some Breeze.

When I was but a child, of course all the neighbors predicted that I would turn out to be a bum, but none of them, even in their most spiteful moods could conceive that I would be a debunker. Nor would I have, had not Fate taken me into council and sentenced me to eternal literary perdition. There are a multiplicity of causes, and reasons, but foremost among them is the unconscious effect of absorbing everything I hear in class and permitting my hyper-natural imagination to exaggerate them. As an afterthought, I'd hate to think that any of my dear teachers suspect me of dirty-cracking; it was all my fault.

So much for the literary, economic, and political aspects of the question. But to get down to business, and fulfill the mandate of the sub-head which I so cleverly arranged. The only secret to my great literary power—and I might add in a spirit of "bouquets" made famous by Hunt and Christman—that of the beloved editor, is the effects of right living. Of course, the several cases are not exactly parallel, for "Herb" has a "liddy" he's saving himself for, while I have nought of the kind. Upon a subtle mental analysis, however, I find that I must unconsciously protect and cultivate that coy, wistful, "a la Vallee" smile and general mien so destructive to feminine hearts, and the rage and despair of all those males with whom I come in contact.

All of which has not the least bearing on journalistic secrets of a successful young writer, but who cares about that? Show me another article in this propaganda sheet which is more coherent or better organized.

Just saw Herb type out some hokey about there being a special unexpurgated editor of the Viatorian. What irony! At the beginning of the year I had style all of my own, but what came out of it? What came out of it (if I may become Groucho Marx-ian)? They stole my stuff, that's what they did! And now what do you see on every page of this—this—this—? Of course you do, and they wonder why the irony of it all gets under my skin! Why, my stuff has lost nearly every individualizing note it ever possessed. I guess the only thing for me to do is to join one of those syndicates typified by Hearst and Hearst and etc. So far as I can perceive, such copyrighted privileges constitute the demise of every mother's son of us truly great journalists. Oh, woe, thou art personified in the fourth estate.

Tim Sullivan of Chicago dropped into the College for a short visit last week.

good to leave Viator holding a bare one-point advantage, 29-28. With less than a minute to play, Romary was fouled and made his effort good to give the Irish a two-point lead and sew up the game.

Irish Are Feared.

The game stamped the Irish as the outstanding team of the Middle-West. They have long been known as a dangerous quintet, but this win marks them as superior. From now on, St. Viator will not be a game on the schedule of her opponents, or even THE game, but will be THE SCHEDULE. Five teams are left for the Irish to play before they can definitely lay claim to any sort of a championship, and it will be an almost super-human feat for them to complete their schedule undefeated. They will stack up against Millikin, Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, Bradley, and Elmhurst with every team loaded for the Irish and prepared to stake the remainder of their charts on the rarest chance of defeating them. Of the five games, but one, the Elmhurst encounter, is regarded as easy. To complete such a schedule without a defeat would stamp this year's outfit as one of the greatest ever to show on a Middle-Western floor. What say, team?

pirants have been heard to complain of the requirements for debating, the veteran coach has merely smiled and dropped hints of an increase in work to be done.

Gaze at Conference Title.

Although Viator will present an almost entirely new line-up in the forensic field this season, she is conceded an excellent chance of winning the coveted Conference bunting because of her reserve strength and the unprecedented pre-season form of her contestants. To date it is known that there will be three Conference debates at Bourbonnais and three on the road, but the complete schedule has not yet been released by the Manager of Debate. However, it is promised that all the local enthusiasts will be treated to some very good intercollegiate debates during the coming month.

Victory Gives Viator Lead.

The victory established the Irish more firmly on the peak of the Little Nineteen standings. It was the tenth Conference victory of the Irish, and practically sewed up the championship. St. Viator has five games left to play in the Conference—meeting Millikin, Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, Bradley, and Elmhurst. For their claim to be valid, it will be necessary for the Irish to secure three of these five.
